30,000 JAPS KILLED IN PORT ARTHUR BATTLE

Awful Carnage Reported By Explosion of Russian Mines as Japs Advanced in Furious Assault on Fort.

Special Cable to Boston American.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 13.—Th egeneral staff announces that Viceroy Alexieff has received a message from Japanese sources of a big attack on Port Arthur on Monday. The Japanese were repulsed with severest losses. It is stated that Russian warships emerged and attacked the Japanese simultaneously. The report has caused a sensation here. Confirmation and details are anxiously waited. There is talk of raising the siege.

30,000 SLAUGHTERED.

LONDON, July 13.—The frightful slaughter of from 28,000 to 30,000 Japanese soldiers, by the explosion of Russian land mines, out of Port Arthur, is reported in dispatches from Mukden, Shanghai and Tien-Tsin. This fact is taken to indicate that the reported disaster to the Japanese is probably true although the loss of life may be greatly exaggerated.

The mines, according to the report, were exploded under massed columns of advancing Japanese troops. The result was terrific. The Japs were slaughtered by the thousands and the survivors were thrown into confusion. The Russians were quick to take advantage of the situation and made

CROCKER WIDOW AGAIN LOSES $7,000,000 WILL

SUPREME COURT SUSTAINS VERDICT—FIRST WILL NOW TO BE OFFERED.

Judge Brayley, of the Supreme Judicial Court, sustains to-day the verdict of the jury breaking the seven-million dollar will of the late Uriel H. Crocker.

In a decision handed down this noon he denies the motion made by Colonel Josiah H. Benton, Jr., counsel for the widow, Mrs. Annie J. Crocker, that the verdict of the jury breaking the will be set aside and that the will stand as made.

The will gave the entire income on the immense property to the widow for life, with power for her to distribute the property at her death among the three sons of the testator as she saw fit.

A previous will, which gave her the income of one-half the property during her life, with privilege of distributing the property at her discretion among the three sons at her death, will be offered for probate.

Strike Affects 72,000 Stock Yards Employes---Train Loads of Beef Lie Tied Up in New York---From 2 to 5 Cents Per Pound Advance Already in Boston---Live Cattle Being Rushed East for Slaughter Here---No Meat at Any Price If Shut Down Continues.

AS A RESULT OF A STRIKE OF NEARLY 73,000 MEMBERS OF TH EAMALGAMATED PACKERS AND MEAT CUTTERS' ASSOCIATION, THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY, AGAINST A REDUCTION IN WAGES, PRICES OF MEATS IN BOSTON AND THROUGHOUT NEW ENGLAND ARE EXPECTED TO TAKE A BIG JUMP WITHIN A FEW DAYS. THERE IS NO MEAT BEING SHIPPED EAST AND THE SUPPLY I NBOSTON, AS IN NEW YORK AND OTHER EASTERN CITIES, IS SUFFICIENT T OLAST ONLY FROM THREE DAYS TO A WEEK.

Boston meat men said to-day that the supply could not be expected to hold outt unless cattle trains could be got through fro the West with live stock for slaughter in the local abattoirs. Round steak is expected to go up from 20 to 30 cents a pound. Rump steak and sirloin will go att 50 cents, according to marketmen, and beef rolls will be sent along from 10 to 12 cents a pound to 18 cents. Leg of lamb, now selling for 15 cents, is marked for 30 cents and the advance on other meats corresponds.

A member of the firm of Goodenough & Co., wholesale and retail meat dealers, in Faneuil Hall market, said to-day that prices have already started up and will go much higher as a result of the strike. The prices quoted above, according to this firm, and others, will rule in Boston within a few days, unless the strike is settled, and it will be difficult to procure meat even att such rates.

The large Boston grocery firms to-day had their representatives buying up all the available supply of canned meats, in expectation of a fresh meat famine.

In New York the strike outlook is serious. Armour & Co. and Schwartzchild & Sulzberger called on the police to-day to protect their plants, around which the strikers were congregating, according to leased wire dispatches to the BOSTON AMERICAN. Organizer Eichelberger, in New York, said to a BOSTON AMERICAN correspondent:

SUPPLY WON'T LAST 3 DAYS.

"Not a pound of beef will be on hand for sale in New York in three

FLOOD IN PHILIPPINES, TWO HUNDRED DROWN

$2,000,000 DAMAGE DONE AT SAN JUAN DELMONTE—HOMES OF AMERICANS ISOLATED.

MANILA, July 13.—A cloudburst over the hills northeast of Manila caused a flood which destroyed San Juan Delmonte. Two hundred lives were lost. The low lying districts were inundated. The homes of Americans and foreigners are isolated. Transportation through the streets is carried in boats only.

Rain has fallen for twenty-seven hours, totalling seventeen and one-fifth inches. This is unprecedented. Communication with outside places is interrupted.

The damage to property is estimated at $2,000,000.

BLOW UP P. O. SAFE, GET $500 CASH, STAMPS

Boston police are on the lookout for the gang of safe robbers who blew up the post office safe at Canton Junction and secured $500 in cash and stamps early to-day.

"As Canton Junction is on the main line between Boston and Providence, I think the men may have slipped into one of these two cities in the hope of hiding, so I have notified Boston police headquarters," said Chief of Police J. F. Plunkett, of Canton, to an AMERICAN reporter this noon.

"We have no definite clue. By close watch we hope to apprehend the cracksmen when they try to dispose of the stamps in their possession. I believe the break was the work of out-of-town professionals. This is shown by the careful way in which nitro-glycerine was used in blowing off the inner door of the safe. Amateurs could not do such clever work. After opening the outer door by use of the combination the nitro-glycerine was cleverly placed that a lighted lamp on top of the safe was unshaken by the explosion which tore off the inner door."

The safe crackers examined every paper in the safe. Those of no money value were scattered all over the floor near the wrecked safe.

AIRSHIP TEST SAID TO HAVE BEEN SUCCESSFUL

MONTPELIER, France, July 13.—Count de Lave Vaults tested his new airship to-day. The balloon returned in tow of a destroyer after remaining for an hour out over the sea. Aeronaut Herve, who accompanied De La Vaulx, said the test was satisfactory.

KILLED IN A QUARRY.

QUINCY, Mass., July 13.—Nicholas Arendus, a Finn, was accidently killed today in the Gold Leaf quarry here. A block of stone fell on him, crushing his leg and hip. He lived but two hours.

MILLIONAIRE PIERCE HELD FOR ASSAULT

Thomas W. Pierce, millionaire and clubman, of Topsfield and Boston, was arraigned in the Salem District Court to-day on a charge of assault on Edward E. Brown, a Salem photographer, on May 16, and was held in $500 for the grand jury.

The cause of the assault, according to the testimony given, was that Brown had sold some photographs of Mrs. Pierce to a Boston newspaper, in which they were published. The pictures, which showed Mrs. Pierce with her horses, were taken for one Boston paper, which refused to accept them, and the photographer thereupon sold them to another.

Mr. Brown told the story of the assault upon him by Mr. Pierce.

"Mr. Pierce entered my place at No. 3 Central street about 6 o'clock in the evening of May 16," he said. "I was in the gallery with Miss Lottie Hurtle. Mr. Pierce asked Miss Hurtle for me, and then turned to me and said:

"'Is your name Brown?'

"I replied that it was, and then he said:

"'Well, my name is Pierce. Where are those Pierce plates?'

"I replied that they were at my home.

"'Did you sell some pictures of my wife?' he asked.

"I said that I did, and that I thought I had the right to do so.

"'Well,' he replied, 'I think I can show you that you did not have that right.'

"Then he struck me in the face."

Mr. Brown testified that one of Mr. Pierce's blows cut his eyelid and that he had had considerable trouble with his eyes since the assault.

Miss Lottie Hurtle, fifteen years old, said she was present when Mr. Pierce entered, heard part of the conservation, and saw Mr. Pierce strike Brown. They fought for some time, she said.

Patrolman Brown testified that he arrested Pierce, who said to him: "I did it and I am ready to suffer for it."

No testimony was put in by Mr. Pierce and Judge Hubbard held him for the grand jury.

a sortie, driving the Japs back in wild disorder.

According to semi-official reports the Japanese have had from 60,000 to 100,000 men massed around Port Arthur.

NO OFFICIAL CONFIRMATION.

This information comes from Russian sources and has not been officially confirmed. There are numerous rumors from native sources bearing on the situation at Port Arthur. According to one of these Admiral Togo has been reinforced by several large vessels from Sasebo, where they were repaired and refitted.

Chinese refugees from Port Arthur who arrived here this afternoon, report that the Japanese have recaptured two positions from which they recently were driven, namely, forts 14 and 7.

LOST BUT 174 AT KAI-CHOU

LONDON, July 13.—Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister, to-day issues an official report of the losses by the Japanese during the fight for the occupation of Kai Ping (Kai Chou). The casualties between July 5 and 7 were four killed and twenty wounded, while the losses on July 8 and 9 were about 150 killed and wounded.

JAP DIVISIONS NEAR HAI-CHENG

LONDON, July 13.—The Takushan army, which is marching North from Siu Yen, is reported from Shanghai to have reached Simucheng, less than twenty miles from Hai-Cheng.

ADVANCE ON NEW CHWANG

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Chicago Daily News correspondent at New-Chwang telegraphs his paper July 12:

"Geenral Oku's troops continued their advance yesterday eight miles south of this city, on the coast road from Kai-Ping. The main column pased slowly along the railroad from Kai-Ping. The Russians have retreated to Tai-Ping-Shan, a little to the south of Tashih-Chao, where extensive fortifications have been constructed. When the column advancing along the coast road reaches Niu-Chwang, General Kuropatkin will have the enemy moving against him from four points.

CZAR RECALLS COUSIN BORIS

BERLIN, July 13.—The Tageblatt reports that as a result of complaints by General Kuropatkin, the Czar has recalled his cousin, Grand Duke Boris, from the seat of war and banished him to Archangel in European Russia.

The Grand Duke is reported to have been guilty of indiscretions and unprintable dissipations.

WOULD LIFT UP WAGE EARNERS

CONCORD, N. H., July 13.—The principal address at the twentieth annual convention of the Association of officials of Bureaus of Labor Statistics of America, which opened here today, was by President William J. Tucker of Dartmouth College, who spoke on "The Mind of the Wage Earner," and pointed out a "duty to the mind of labor."

"That duty," he said, "is to give it freedom, breadth, expansion; to incorporate it into the common mind of aspiration and hope, the American type of mind. I would make the wage earner as he grows strong a helper all-round, a partner in all the serious work of the republic."

News Bits AROUND GREATER BOSTON

Edmund Robinson, the thirteen-year-old son of Captain J. W. Robinson, No. 101 Cottage street, East Boston, who was impaled on a Maverick street fence while at play, died in great agony.

A Boston architect, Herbert D. Hale, has won the competition for the plans of the United Engineering building to be erected in New York at the expense of Andrew Carnegie.

Public and private bequests are contained in the will of Priscilla N. Livermore, of Roxbury, whose estate is valued at $30,000.

Salem aldermen are trying to dodge the responsibility of naming the one druggist who may sell liquor by turning the matter over to the druggists, but the latter will not assume it.

Dr. Chas. A. Eastman, formerly of Boston, has been found guilty of manslaughter in Alfred, Me., by causing the death of Edith McIntire, of Boothbay Harbor, through malpractice.

George Dwyer, sixteen, of Auburndale, was drowned in the Charles River because an improvised life preserver broke when he was beyond his depth.

The United States government is alarmed by the spread of the gypsy moth from Malden, Medford, Melrose and Everett to Cambridge, Arlington and Wakefield, and has experts studying the havoc wrought.

WOMAN THREW MONEY AWAY

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Laughing and crying hysterically, a woman, whose name is thought to be Pollark, ran down Broadway to-day with hundreds of dollars in bills of large denomination in her hand which she threw away one at a time.

She was finally overcome by two policemen in the lobby of the St. Denis Hotel, Eleventh street and Broadway, and taken to Bellevue Hospital, where she is now confined in a padded cell.

A paper found in one of her pockets had the name of Frederick Lustig of No. 538 East Eighty-fourth street written on it. Lustig was communicated with and asked to go to the hospital and identify her if possible.

HOOPER DIED IN EXPLOSION

Dispatches to-day say that Medical Examiner Conn, of Concord, N. H., has declared that the death of Chester E. Hooper of Everett, Mass., was caused by an explosion, cause of which was unknown. The authorities of Concord appear satisfied that Hooper met his death as the result of an accident and they declare there will be no further investigation into the mysterious case.

Edwin Hooper, father of Chester E. Hooper, declared to-day that he would continue the investigation on his own behalf to discover the exact cause of his son's death. Mr. Hooper is firmly convinced that his son met with foul play.

JOE LEITER'S MINERS QUIT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

BENTON, Ill., July 13.—The first trouble at Leiter's new mining town of Zeigler is now on. Mr. Leiter has refused to pay the union mining scale for miners, and has offered the men what they claim is seventeen cents per ton less than the scale, and he is said to want them to work ten hours.

The miners have walked out. They say no union miner will work and they intend to use all peaceable methods to keep non-union miners from working.

Joe Leiter has ordered all the miners to leave his town by Wednesday. He owns all the land, houses and business in Zeigler. He anticipates trouble, and has brought seventy-five Chicago policemen and detectives to Zeigler to protect the town around his mines and power house.

After Wednesday he will allow no trespassing in his town. He has had telephones placed miles in each direction to notify him of approaching danger.

In eighteen months Zeigler has grown from a forest to a town of more than 1,000 inhabitants, and it has 300 houses, a post office, bank, department store, water works and electric lights.

WILLS $30,000 FOR CHARITY

For the advancement of educational and charitable institutions the entire estate of over $30,000, left by the late Priscilla Livermore, of Roxbury, will be used, according to the terms of her will. She died June 10, and her will, which has just been probated, bears the date of August 28, 1903.

As a students' fund for poor girls, she leaves to Whitman College, at Walla Walla, Washington, $2,000; to Pleasant Hill Academy, Pleasant Hill, Tennessee, $3,000. The remaining bequests are of $500 to each of the following: The Women' Home and the Women's Foreign Missionary Societies of bury; the Congregational Ministers Aid Society of Massachusetts, and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Northfield Seminary will receive $4,000 for a scholarship fund.

The remainder of the estate will amount to about $20,000, and this is to be divided into three equal parts for the establishing of libraries. The beneficiaries are: The town of North Brookfield, for a library at the High School, to be known as the Priscilla Livermore Library; Whitman College and Pleasant Hill Academy.

BATES MAKES NOMINATIONS

Nominations were submitted to-day by Governor Bates to the Governor's Council as follows:

Dr. Nathaniel R. Perkins, of Boston, to the Board of Registration in Medicine; Frank Foxcroft, of Cambridge, to the Board of Civil Service Commissioners, vice Winthrop L. Marvin, resigned; Erastus T. Colburn, of Newton, and Sidney M. Hedges, of Boston, Trustees of the Homoeopathic Hospital; Peleg F. Murray, of Worcester, Detective Department of the District Police; James W. Kimball, of Lynn, member of the State Board of Publication; Mrs. Susan Cabot Lyman, of Waltham, Trustee of the Lyman and Industrial Schools, vice Miss E. C. Putnam, resigned; Justin A. Bailey, of Kingston, Pilot Commissioner for Boston Harbor.

The Governor has not yet made a nomination to the clerkship of courts for the Foruth District of Plymouth County. Charges, alleging incompetency, have been filed against William L. Chipman, of Wareham, the incumbent of the office.

DUBLIN RABBI TRIES SUICIDE.

DUBLIN, July 13.—Rabbi Louis Newman, a prominent Jewish religious worker, attempted to commit suicide after completing serices in his synagogue here to-day.

LOEB HELD UP MINERS' ENVOYS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 13.—There is some anxiety about Sagamore Hill at the outcome of President Roosevelt's refusal to receive the petition sent to him by the miners' convention, asking that he investigate the trouble in the Colorado mines.

Secretary Loeb, it is said, is prepared in case the worst comes to the worst, to come out as he did after the Lipton incident last year and say: "I did it."

The committee of two sent by the miners was held up by Mr. Loeb, who refused to permit them to hand the petition to the President or even to see him.

The labor men after exhausting all their efforts to see the President refused to leave a copy of their petition in the hands of the Secretary. They denounced the President's policy of exclusion in bitter terms, and took the first train for Pittston to make known to the convention the result of their mission.

TEETH STIFLE YELL; KILL HER

NEW YORK, July 13.—Frightened by the narrow escape of her young son from being run down by a heavy truck, Mrs. Mary Murphy, wife of a Brooklyn merchant, has been strangled to death by her false teeth.

The woman went to Coney Island for an outing. In his hurry to cross the street her son dashed in front of a team and narrowly escaped. His mother attempted to scream, and fell strangling before a crowd of pleasure seekers. She died in a few minutes, and the doctors found the cause in a set of false teeth halfway down the throat.

SO. END BRANCH LIBRARY OPENS

In packing and removing 15,000 volumes to their new quarters in Every Day Church, Shawmut avenue, Miss Margaret A. Sheridan, librarian of South End Branch Public Library, accomplished a remarkable feat. The library was doing business up to 6 o'clock last night in English High School, while to-day at noon there were 5,000 volumes on the shelves at the church, which has been leased by the city for ten years.

The South End Branch Library was founded by the Mercantile Library Association in 1876, when several thousand volumes were donated. In 1880 the library was moved to the basement of English High School, where it has been constantly used by day and night school pupils. The basement is to be turned nito a luncroom for boys.

Miss Sheridan has been with the library nearly twenty years. She will have five assistants.

ALARM IS FELT FOR SEN. HOAR

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, July 13.—Close friends of Senator George F. Hoar are becoming alarmed at his continued illness. For nearly two weeks he has been suffering with lumbago, and to-day there is no improvement in his condition. Physicians and trained nurses are constantly in attendance and everything possible is being done to alleviate the pain.

Senator Hoar continues to laugh at his friends who are concerned about his welfare. To them he says that his condition is not the least bit serious, but extremely provoking. Despite the assurances of the "grand old man" his friends would breathe easier if he were able to be up and around again.

COMMISSIONER SARGENT IS IN BOSTON TO-DAY

Frank P. Sargent, commissioner-general of immigration, of Washington, D. C., accompanied by Commissioner John Rodgers, of Philadelphia, called upon Commissioner Billings to-day, and later visited the detention room and other branches of the immigration service in Boston.

Commissioner Sargent returned to Washington this afternoon.

GOV. BATES AT STATE FARM.

Governor Bates and the members of the Governor's Council went to Bridgewater, today, to inspect the State Farm.

TRADE ACTIVE IN COPPERS

Breadth, strength and activity under the lead of Copper, Range Consolidated characterized the trading in the Boston stock market during the day. To its big jump of the previous day, amounting to five percent, was added to-day another gain of 4 points, the price rising to 53¾.

The trading in this issue was the heaviest in any single specialty, although gains were made by some of the other copper shares in a lesser degree. A new feature was a revival of interest in Isle Royale, which was advanced 1½ to 10½.

CALLS LAWSON OFFER OF $100,000 FOOLISH

SEN. McCARREN SAYS IT IS "HORSE PLAY," AND WILL IGNORE IT.

Thomas W. Lawson has not received any reply from Senator Patrick H. McCarren, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in regard to the former's offer to give $100,000 to the Democratic campaign fund if the latter is not a Standard Oil agent. When interviewed at home, Senator McCarren spoke of Mr. Lawson's offer as "foolish" and as "horse play."

"I have nothing more to say," said Senator McCarren, "except to repeat that the statement that I am or have been in the employ of the Standard Oil Company is absolutely false and has no foundation."

"But how about proving your assertion and winning $100,000 for the Democratic campaign fund?" Senator McCarren was asked.

"That is foolish," replied the Senator. "I am too busy to pay any attention to such horse play. I shall pay no further attention to the statement by Mr. Lawson and will treat it with the silent contempt that such a false statement deserves.

"I never met the gentleman and would not know him if I should see him and I cannot conceive by what license he affects knowledge of my personal affairs which he does not possess. The very ridiculousness of his statement shows that he has no knowledge on the subject."

ROOSEVELT AND FAIRBANKS ROW?

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Serious differences have arisen between President Roosevelt and Senator Fairbanks, his running mate, on a plan of campaign that are causing the party leaders great concern.

Instead of agreeing upon a plan of action at the conference at Sagamore Hill on Monday, the two leaders veered so far apart in their views that the conference was abruptly terminated, and the candidate for Vice-President, abandoning his plan to remain with the President yesterday, took an early train from Oyster Bay and spent the day at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

It is persistently urged that Mr. Bliss also found it impossible to agree with the President and courteously took his departure.

It is the belief of many who know the disposition and characteristics of President Roosevelt that his desire to plan his own campaign and act as the chief directing force have created a ruction in Republican ranks.

WHALES SCARE THE FISH AWAY

Incoming captains report large schools of whales sporting about off Chatham, and captains of fishing vessels say their presence is hurting the business. Catches during the past week have been much smaller, the fish being scared away by the monster sea creatures. Forty of fifty whales have been seen at one time, swimming idly about off Chatham.

When the Gloucester seiner, Natalie J. Nelson, Captain George Nelson, came in at T wharf with 20,000 fresh mackerel, there was a big rush of dealers. The entire cargo was sold at thirteen cents a fish, netting the capain $2,600 for a week's work.

The Norumbega with 10,000 and the Mary E. Harty with 11,000 arrived today. They sold readily at a good price.

Fifty-one sword fish were sold at $7 per hundred weight. Mixed fish is plentiful, nearly 200,000 pounds arriving up to noon, resulting in a big decline. Haddock sold at $2 and cod at $3.50.

days. Every branch of the union is thoroughly organized, and the firms cannot help themselves. The trust is responsible for the strike. It has been apparent to us for some time that they wished to provoke just such a situation."

In Brooklyn this morning there were seven freight cars loaded with meat lying in the Flatbush yards of the Long Island Railroad Company, and there was no one to handle it. At this point are the branch houses of all the big Western packing firms, and of the men employed in them 1,700 went on strike to-day.

In Manhattan, in the various packing houses, no meat was being handled. Four firms sent word early to-day to police headquarters that police protection was needed if any meat was to be handled at all.

No Aid Can be Expected.

No aid can be hoped for from other cities. New York has a three days' supply on hand, and after that is exhausted will have to depend on what can be obtained from local packers not associated with the trust. Chicago has sufficient on hand for ten days' local consumption, but other packing centres have not more than three days' supply. There will be a pork and poultry famine, as well as a beef famine, the prices of the latter products having gone up with beef.

Local butchers and meat dealers say there will be a steady increase of price until the supply of beef and pork is exhausted. The market conditions have been dull, owing to the heat; but, in spite of the slack demand, prices have begun to soar. Beef, all cuts, is from 3 to 6 cents meats have gone up in proportion. Pork is from 2 to 10 cents higher. Pigeons, squabs, turkeys, chickens and ducks have gone up from 2 to 5 cents a pound.

Famine Is Threatened.

Wholesale butchers were unprepared for the famine and, retail butchers, of course, have on hand only small stocks. They buy from day to day and rarely carry more than enough for one day's business.

A member of the firm of Goodenough & Co., wholesalers and retailers of meats in Faneuil Hall market, said to-day:

"The prices of all meats have gone up and will go higher as a result of the strike. When the present stocks are depleted prices will be almost prohibitive. If the railroads can get cattle trains through in sufficient number to furnish live stock, however, we will be spared a famine. Just at present business is quiet on account of hot weather, but a cool wave would be followed immediately by a new schedule of prices."

Fifty Cents for Rump Steak?

Fresh beef jumped in New York to-day from 10½ to 16½ cents a pound, indicating that Boston consumers will presently be paying 50 cents a pound for rump steak, instead of 35 cents, as heretofore. Round steak, now selling from 20 to 25 cents, will easily bring 30 cents. The lines on which the market has been caught short by the strike are feeling the advance most.

The strike is the most extensive in the history of the meat packing industry. Thousands of men in Chicago, St. Joseph, Omaha, Fort Worth, St. Louis and other centres of the industry are idle. The daily loss in wages represents more than $50,000. The daily loss in business to packers is estimated at $1,000,000. The strike started in Chicago and quickly spread to other cities. If prolonged the strike is expected to equal in general public inconvenience the anthracite strike of two years ago with its consequent fuel famine.

Fighting a Wage Reduction.

The strike was ordered by President Donnelly, of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America. President Donnelly is in Chicago, which is headquarters for the movement. He is quoted in a dispatch to the BOSTON AMERICAN as follows:

"I wish to make it perfectly clear that we are not fighting for an increase of wages, but against a decrease.

"Our original demand was for a minimum of 20 cents an hour for laborers. This demand was amended after our second conference with the packers in June.

"We then agreed to a scale of 18¼ cents an hour, except in Omaha and Sioux City, where the scale is 19 cents

"The packers, on the other hand, refused to pay more than 17¼ cents an hour and declined to sign any agreements at all except with a small proportion of the workmen.

"The question of wages to skilled men was not discussed. To unskilled workmen the average wage was 18¼ cents, but when we asked that this be made the minimum wage, they cut it to 17½ cents and 15 cents. Men could live on 15 cents if they got steady work, but in some plants men have been able to make just thirteen hours a week at this wage scale. They could not live on it. No one could."

Girls Given Cheers.

A feature of the strike that is apt to be overlooked is the fact that the strikers' organization does not include the electricians, steamfitters, firemen, engineers, car workers and teamsters. These make in Chicago alone a total of 10,000 additional men who may or may not be idle, wholly or in part, voluntarily or otherwise, according to the development in the struggle between the direct contestants.

A picturesque scene was presented when the sausage factories and canneries in Chicago were deserted by their forces. There are 1,000 girls employed in these two departments of the meat industry. Clad in their variegated garbs of factory girls, this army of feminine strikers tripped blithely along the main thoroughfare of the stock yards and were roundly cheered as they emerged through the gates and distributed themselves through the crowds of men who were waiting.

"We're with you till the last," the girls exclaimed, smiling as they stood around and talked over the situation.

Boston Distributing Centre.

Three thousand head of cattle a week can be killed at the abattoirs of the New England Beef, and Wool Company, Sturtevant and Haley, and at Brighton—enough to supply Boston and the surrounding towns within a radius of ten miles, if a sufficient supply of live cattle can be obtained from the West. Negotiations to this end are being entered into to-day with the distributing centres of the West, and it is believed that the desired number of live cattle can be secured.

If the strike continues Boston is liable to become a distributing centre for Eastern Massachusetts cities, this being the only city having any adequate facilities for slaughtering cattle.

Provided live cattle can be brought here in sufficient numbers, Boston will escape a meat famine unless the wholesalers undertake to sell in large quantities to outside parties.

NO DISORDER AT THE CHICAGO STOCK YARDS

CHICAGO, July 13.—Peaceful was the condition of affairs in the stock yards territory to-day. Knots of strikers gathered and pickets were placed to keep watch on any contemplated movement on the part of the packers to bring into the plants such non-union help as they have been able to secure over night. Eighty negroes were smuggled into the yards under cover of darkness, it was reported. They were used in the placing of beef slaughtered Tuesday into the cooling rooms.

Five hundred policemen remained within call should necessity require their presence to disperse unruly assemblages.

Sporadic attempts at disorder were noticed, but they did not result in any serious action. At the western entrance to the yards a number of Poles and Bohemians upset a few cinder wagons and baited union engineers and firemen going to work—men who had not been called on to take a part in the struggle. President Donnelly sent word for the police to disperse the unruly element that congregates about the Ashland avenue saloons, and instructed interpreters to explain to the foreigners not to interfere with the men not involved in the contest.

NO DESERTIONS FROM RANKS OF STRIKERS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 13.—There were no desertions from the packing house strikers ranks this morning nor did the packers hire any laborers. There is no work for the latter, as their duties depend upon the activity of the killing gangs. The packing house district was comparatively deserted this morning when the 7 o'clock whistles blew. No extra police are on duty. The saloons surrounding the plants are empty.

Armour had about 1,200 cattles and hogs on hand and 500 sheep, and announced the intention of slaughtering them. The prices of meats so far are unchanged.

GOMPERS SAYS IT'S A FIGHT ON UNIONISM

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 13.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who came here to address the labor conventions in session, says:

"I do not think that any one will assert that the price of meats has been reduced so that it becomes necessary to reduce the packers employers' wages. We know that they have gotten rid of the middleman in the meat trade. We know that they have introduced a marvellous system of economies in their business so that every little scrap is saved in every beef, sheep, calf or hog that is killed.

"It is more than probable that the explanation will be that the fight is made against unionism rather than on account of inability to grant the raise asked."

RICH FALL RIVER CLUBMAN TO BE SUED BY JILTED GIRL

FALL RIVER GIRL TO SUE FOR BROKEN HEART.

BENOIT'S PHOTO.

MISS IDA MURPHY

Pretty Ida Murphy Says That David R. Smith Was Engaged to Her.

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, July 13.—The Fall River Globe says: A few days ago the engagement was announced of David R. Smith, South Main street druggist, and Miss Ida A. Murphy, of 57 Whipple street, the daughter of Jeremiah N. Murphy. The announcement, which came to the Globe from Miss Murphy herself, has been followed by a marriage, but the bride is not Miss Murphy.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Smith pledged his heart and hand to Miss Celia Gesner, of 1380 Globe street, who came to this city from Worcester a short time ago. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. William J. Martin, of the Pearl Street Presbyterian Church.

Gave Bride Property.

Before the marriage took place the groom transferred his property to his prospective bride. A bill of sale was given, and later a married woman's certificate was filed by Miss Gesner. By the bill of sale all the horses and carriages of the groom and the contents of the drug store on South Main street were transferred to his intended wife. Mr. Smith has also transferred all of his real possessions to Miss Gesner, and the deeds were recorded yesterday afternoon.

Miss Murphy is employed as a clerk at the Public Library. She was shocked when told of the marriage of Mr. Smith. She refused to believe that such a thing could be possible. She claims that she kept company with Mr. Smith for two years or more and that he had three times asked her to marry him. All of her wedding garments had been prepared and everything was in readiness.

ACCUSED OF FAITHLESSNESS.

DAVID R. SMITH

Accused Man Married Worcester Beauty and Is Now on His Honeymoon.

Begin Suit at Once.

Mrs. Murphy, mother of the girl, said that proceedings for breach of promise will be begun immediately against Mr. Smith.

Both young women are tall and of prepossessing appearance. The bride is the daughter of Jacob Gesner, a carpenter by occupation. In the marriage intentions filed yesterday at the city clerk's office the age of the bride is given as twenty-nine, and that of the groom as fifty. It is the bride's first marriage. She gives Canada as her birthplace.

150 PROMISED WORK AT TUBE WORKS; BUNCOED

By the promise of work at the American Tube Works, on Frost avenue, Somerville, where a strike in on, 150 Italians were buncoed to-day.

When the superintendent of the Tube Works arrived at his office he found the Italians, who said they had been told by a man in the North End, Boston, that they could get work there.

The superintendent telephoned the police and requested that the Italians be driven away from the works.

HEAVIES LOST, FALL IN HARBOR

Special to the Boston American.

NEW BEDFORD, July 13.—Two of the First Heavies, lost in the fog, fell into the harbor last night, and were reported today as sick. For two days now Fort Rodman has been wrapped in a mist by day and a dense, impenetrable fog by night, making guard duty hard.

The reservation is an extensive one, and members of the First Heavies, unfamiliar with the place, have had difficulty in finding their company streets after once leaving them.

From the fact that few passes are issued, scores of the men run the guards and make for the city, a thing comparatively easy, on account of the fog, which prevents one seeing a rod. Last night a party of four escaped in this way, and after touring the city returned to camp about 2 o'clock this morning. In seeking to make a detour around a guard they became lost and wandered to the edge of an embankment, over which the two in the lead plunged headlong into the water.

Their uniforms were covered with mud, and it was due to these tell-tale marks that they were unable to appear at guard mount this morning.

BRYAN WILL VOTE TICKET, BUT PROTESTS

Dissatisfied With Nomination, But Holds Platform Superior to Republicanism.

TO REORGANIZE THE PARTY

By Boston American Leased Wire.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 13.—William J. Bryan, who returned from St. Louis yesterday, gave out a statement in which he gave four main reasons why he will vote for Parker. They are:

First, because the Democratic ticket stands for opposition to imperialism, while the Republican ticket stands for an imperialistic policy. On this issue the convention was unanimous, the platform emphatic and I have no doubt that the candidates will carry out the platform.

Second, Mr. Roosevelt is injecting the race issue into American politics, and this issue, if it become national, would make it impossible to consider economic questions that demand solution.

Stands for War Spirit.

Third, Mr. Roosevelt stands for the spirit of war. His friends present him as a man of blood and iron. He believes in strenuousness and inculcates a love for warlike things. The Democratic ticket stands for peace, for reason and for arbitration rather than force, conquest and bluster.

Fourth, the Democratic platform declares in favor of the reduction of the standing army, and as this plank was unanimously adopted there is no reason to believe that Democratic success on this subject would not bring some advantage to the people."

Mr. Bryan adds:

"I feel justified in supporting the ticket, but I shall not misrepresent the situation or appeal for votes for the ticket upon false grounds. A Democratic victory will mean very little, if any, progress on economic questions so long as the party is under the control of the Wall street element. On the money question Mr. Parker is as thoroughly committed to the side of the financiers as Mr. Roosevelt.

Better Trust Platform.

"On the trust question the Democratic platform is very much better than the Republican platform, but the nomination of Judge Parker virtually nullifies the anti-trust plank.

"So far as the labor questions are concerned, we must await Judge Parker's letter before we shall know whether the laboring man has anything to expect from his election.

Crooked Methods Used.

"The nomination was secured by crooked and indefensible methods, but the Democrat who loves his country has to take his decision upon conditions as he finds them, not upon conditions as he would like to have them.

"As soon as the election is over I shall with the help of those who believe as I do, undertake to organize for the campaign of 1908, the object being to marshal the friends of popular government within the Democratic party to the support of a rational and progressive policy. This plan of organization will be elaborated soon."

SOLUTION OF BURNS PUZZLE NOW IN SIGHT

Inspector Rhodes and Detective Murray Thought to Hold Clue to Mystery.

Special to the Boston American.

ATHOL, July 13.—Chief Police Inspector F. A. Rhodes, of Boston, and State Detective Peleg F. Murray, of Worcester, arrived here to-day and immediately joined forces with Chief of Police Blackman, of Petersham, in an investigation which promises to practically clear the mystery surrounding the alleged murder of Frank J. Burns, who disappeared under peculiar circumstances on the night of December 17 last.

The policemen went directly to Wendell Depot, a small place near here, where they closely questioned Mrs. Sadie Cutler concerning the purchase of a horse and buggy on the morning of December 18.

Get Anonymous Letter.

A few days ago, Chief of Police Jacques received an anonymous letter, written in a disguised hand, which stated that Mrs. Sadie Cutler had told several neighbors of a man who called at her house on the morning of December 18th and offered for sale his horse and buggy. Mrs. Cutler is also credited in the letter with having said that while discussing the probable trade, the stranger had said he was waiting for a body to arrive from Maine.

If Mrs. Cutler can identify Walter E. Smith, who is now held in the Worcester jail on suspicion of having murdered Burns, as the man who offered the team for sale, the police will have proven beyond doubt that Smith was in the immediate vicinity of the fair grounds on the night Burns is believed to have been murdered.

May Be Burns Himself.

If, on the other hand, Mrs. Cutler identifies a photograph of Burns, which the detectives presented her to-day, as the man who offered his team for sale, then the police will abandon the murder theory and devote the remainder of their investigation into discovering where Burns has fled to.

There are many people here to-day who are firmly convinced that Burns left Athol in order to escape payment of a number of small debts which he had contracted during his stay in Athol.

JILTED WOMAN FORBIDS BANNS

Special to the Boston American.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 13.—After he had planned to wed Miss Annie Donovan, of Pawtucket on Saturday next, and had bought tickets for a bridal tour to Europe, Michael R. Downey was served with a paper in a $20,000 breach of promise suit.

Mrs. Mollie Fuller, of Bristol, who, three years ago, lived in Lynn, Mass., is the woman who seeks to forbid the banns through judge and jury. She has been twice married, while Downey is a widower and the hero of a romance which began when he patrolled the streets in a policeman's uniform ten or more years ago. His athletic figure attracted the attention of a Miss Donahue, of Woonsocket.

The stalwart policeman courted her so assiduously that they were soon married in the Cathedral. Her uncle was a wealthy rubber manufacturer. He bequeathed her $100,000 when he died and later she inherited a large fortune from aunts. When Mrs. Fuller moved from Lynn to Rhode Island she met Mrs. Downey and travelled with the husband and wife. Two years ago Mrs. Downey died.

It is not long since the widower announced that he was to marry Miss Donovan. Besides being the principal owner in the Mahogany Palace saloon on Eddy street, he conducts a mortgage and brokerage office in the Banigan building. Mrs. Fuller is regarded as a woman of means, and is said to have put her money in the custody of Downey.

The wealthy widower, saloon man and broker threatens to institute a counter suit for alleged defamation of character. He claims that Mrs. Fuller was prompted to sue him by a desire to obtain money.

TUCKER TRYING TO FORCE STATE TO SHOW HAND

Asks Court to Compel Government to Reveal the Nature of Its Secret Evidence.

PRIVATE HEARING JULY 19

Charles L. Tucker, accused of the murder of Mabel Page, began his battle for life in the equity session of the Superior Court this morning.

At 10:35 James H. Vahey, counsel for the accused, addressed the court. He read a petition, which seeks to have the defence placed in possession of the names of the government's experts and the character of the testimony they are supposed to give at the trial next September. The court room was crowded with spectators.

After reading the motion, which was filed at the East Cambridge Court House about three weeks ago, Mr. Vahey entered into an explanation of the request set forth. He said common justice would seem to make it evident that the defendant should not have his life placed in jeopardy by the introduction of surprising expert testimony at the trial.

The burden of the attorney's argument was against secrecy on the part of the government relating to its own experts. "I understand," said Mr. Vahey, "that the government may call experts to pass upon several different classes of exhibits, including specimens of blood, hair, thumb marks and handwriting."

The Court: "What impels you to that belief?"

Mr. Vahey explained that he simply knew what he had read in the newspapers.

Tucker's attorney first took up the subject of blood experts. They are of two kinds, those making a comparative study of blood and those confining their energies strictly to human blood.

The subject of blood, he said, is a delicate one to handle. The nature of the blood itself and its significance in connection with Tucker's clothing are of the utmost importance to the defendant. He said he would not be surprised by the introduction of exhibits upon which his own experts have had no opportunity to pass.

At this juncture Judge Lawton called a conference. Attorney-General Parker and Attorney Vahey remained in earnest conversation with the Court for some minutes, and immediately upon conclusion of the conference Judge Lawton called the next case.

The Court preferred to hear the balance of the arguments in chambers. The hearing will be resumed in a strictly private session Tuesday morning, July 19, at 10 o'clock, in the Suffolk County Court House.

It is understood that both District Attorney Sanderson and Attorney-General Parker will make arguments for the Government.

HOW TO SLEEP ON HOT NIGHTS.

Most people can stand extreme hot weather if they could only sleep. It is the sleepless nights of tossing and turning that racks the nerves, gives that jaded, tired feeling in the morning, and sometimes complete exhaustion in the heat of the day. Refreshing, natural sleep is induced by a cup of Sanford's Ginger tea, made from the genuine Sanford's Ginger. It quickens the circulation, rests the head, quiets the nerves, centres the blood at the stomach and promotes digestion.

A HEALTHFUL SUMMER DRINK.

As a healthful Summer drink, with milk, iced water, lemonade, effervescent draughts and mineral water, Sanford's Ginger is delicious, cooling, satisfying. Insist on getting Sanford's, it has the blend of quality—for thirty years the standard of purity, flavor and strength.

DOWN ON THE FARM.

Switchel is an old and favorite hot weather drink with farmers, because of its healthfulness, and if city folks would drink it instead of ice water there would be fewer Summer ills. Take two tablespoonfuls of molasses, water, and a spoonful of genuine Sanford's Ginger, and it's ready. Take it every day and notice how it improves the appetite and digestion—but be sure you get Sanford's.

VACATION DANGERS.

Malaria prevails in many sections of New England, especially in country districts, where the germs infect well and spring water. The safe way is never to travel without Sanford's Ginger. It kills disease germs in water, instantly relieves cramps and pains, and speedily checks all forms of Summer ills and colic.

WHEN ICE WATER IS SAFE.

When Sanford's Ginger has been added, with sugar to taste. Be sure to get Sanford's. It breaks up Summer colds and chills, too.

WHOLE WORLD OF SPORTS COVERED FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN BY ITS CORPS OF EXPERTS

CLOUDS AND RAIN STOP AUTO CLIMBS

Special to the Boston American.

BRETTON WOODS, MT. WASHINGTON, N. H., July 13.—Dense clouds, obscuring the mountain, and rain on the other side prevented trials to-day against time by Otto Nestman, in the Stevens-Durica car; James Breese, F. O. Stanley and others. Mt. Washington has therefore been climbed for the last time by an automobile until next year's meet, when, according to reliable advices, the entry list will be the largest ever known in any country for a hill climb.

The success of this meet has been phenomenal, the events having been run off regularly and without a hitch, and in the quickest possible time without accident. Harry S. Harkness, of New York, whose phenomenal climb yesterday in 24 minutes 37 3-5 seconds will be the wonder of the universe. He said this morning:

"I should not have gone again. I may lack nerve, but that climb once was a hard proposition and an experience I won't forget. I understand there are 308 water clearances in the course. I saw few of these. I felt none at all might be a better expression. The big car bounced right along.

Car Swayed Fearfully.

"No, did not think of the precipices at all, in fact I never had a chance to look. The ruts had no interest to me, for with the two front springs gone and only a big pieces of wood (a log) to take their place, I could not expect to hold the ground very long. The springs broke coming up, and by car jumped and swayed from side to side awfully.

"I had not removed my clothes for four days when I started, and I felt sleepy and all done out. I was after the record though and had the second speed held without the clutch slipping I might have done much better.

"You see when I went into second speed it held but a short time and slipped. Then my speedomotre showed thirty to thirty-three miles to the hour. When this clutch slipped I went back to first, showing twenty miles to the hour, except at the turns. The average was about twenty miles to the hour all the way. Of course I jumped a lot and I suppose it must have looked frightful to some, but I really never thought of danger."

Hair-raising Ride.

Harkness reached the two-mile house in six minutes, tieing the time of Stanley, who had done 28:19 2-5 for the climb earlier in the day. At the half-way house in 11:15, he was 1:45 ahead of Stanley. This gain was reduced to a minute and a half at the six-mile house, and then the daring young millionaire opened all up and flew along up the stupendous grade, taking turns on the slide at thirty miles an hour.

In the last two miles, made in 4:07 3-5, he gained on Stanley two minutes and eleven seconds, finishing three minutes forty-one and four-fifth seconds ahead of Stanley.

The calling off of the third day's trials is a disappointment to A. E. Morrison, who in his peerless did 31:06 4-5, having two minutes taken from this time for a block by an Oldsmobile machine, when he really lost four minutes on good testimony. That would have placed him nearly a minute under Stanley's time with a gasoline car.

Morrison banged the side of the mountain so fiercely that he broke off his radiator and lost all water, going the last two miles without cooling.

Special Cars Next Year.

Alexander Winton said last night: "They will build cars for this work which will go two minutes to the mile another year, and the record will go to twenty minutes sure." Mr. Winton is well pleased with the showing made by his four-cylinder stock car, as it came right from the factory to Boston, and over the roads for the climb.

Chairman Pardington reported this morning that Charles J. Glidden, the Boston telephone magnate and an enthusiastic automobilest, had offered a splendid cup for national and international competition in America. The contest will be one of endurance rather than speed, and probably in the style of a non-stop run with the driver going all the way. A late ride in Europe was of 2,000 miles, so America will have to settle upon a longer distance than that. Mr. Glidden's offer is being considered, and an early announcement will be made.

The auto parade is scheduled for to-morrow.

VANDERBILT PLANS AUTO RACE MEET

NEWPORT, July 13.—Everything except a date has been arranged for a big auto race meet here by the Newport Amusement Company. Reginald Vanderbilt made up the programme, and he, his brother Alfred, and Clarence Dolan have offered cups. The card is:

1—For motor cycles, open to all, 1½ miles; a silver cup valued at $100 to the first; entrance fee $10.

2—For electric machines owned by summer and regular residents of Newport and Narragansett Pier, 1½ miles; a silver cup valued at $100 to the first; entrance fee $10.

3—For gasolene cars not exceeding ten horse-power owned by summer and regular residents of Newport and Narragansett Pier, raced in road condition, 1½ miles; a silver cup valued at $100 to the first; entrance fee $10.

4—For gasolene cars exceeding ten horse-power and not exceeding twenty-four horse-power owned by summer and regular residents of Newport and Narragansett Pier, 1½ miles; a silver cup to first valued at $100; entrance fee $10.

5—For gasolene cars not exceeding twenty-four horse-power, open to all; silver cup valued at $100 to first; entrance fee $10.

6—Gasolene cars exceeding twenty-four horse-power, open to all; silver cup valued at $150 to first; entrance fee $10.

The races will take place on Sachusett beach. On the beach at low tide there is a track sixty feet wide and nearly two miles long. Entries must be made to J. M. Clarke, Newport, R. I.

JIMMY BURKE ACCEPTS BOTH

It ought to be easy, now that Jimmy Burke, the fast little Lawrence lightweight, has come through with an acceptance of challenges, to arrange matches with both Young Sidney, of Boston, and Joe McNally, a hard-hitting Fall River boxer. In a prompt reply to their defies Burke writes to the BOSTON AMERICAN as follows:

"I wish you would state, through the BOSTON AMERICAN, that I will accept the defi of Young Sidney and Joe McNally, of Fall River. I will fight either one of them before the club that gives us the best purse."

FALL RIVER LAD WILL FIGHT JIG

Now come the friends of young Steve O'Donnell, a clever 126-pound boxer, of Fall River, with an offer, through the BOSTON AMERICAN, of a battle with Jig Stone. And the Mill City admirers of O'Donnell say breezily, "We will back our opinions."

It seems O'Donnell has stopped every boy he ever boxed, five in number, and he made them all look easy to him. He wants to go higher, and says he will take on the husky Bunker Hill boxer before any of the Bay State clubs that will hang up a suitable purse.

HUB MEN TO RACE IN BIG AUTO MEET

NEW YORK, July 13.—Entries for the Empire City track's automobile meet of next Saturday closed yesterday with a record-breaking list of cars that promises some excellent competition on the mile course at Yonkers. Thirty cars have been entered, the largest number ever present at a race meet.

Recent additions include Oscar Lewisohn's eighteen-horse power Mercedes, S. B. Bowman's ten-horse power Clement, Wayne Kruizet's ten-horse power Duryea racer, H. H. Franklin's two racing machines, one of ten-horse power and the other of twenty-four-horse power.

Entries were also made by H. E. Rogers, the young millionaire, of Brookline, Mass., who negotiated the Mount Washington climb in record time with a Peerless car, and A. E. Morrison, of Boston, who drove his twenty-four-horse power Peerless to the top in thirty-six minutes, winning first prize in this class.

WILLIS MADE AERIAL TRIP

CHICAGO, July 13.—Fisher will likely be twirler from the Hub to face the Colts in the second game of the series to-day.

"I think we will turn the tables this afternoon," said Ceptain Tenney. "We were all right for a while yesterday, and to-day we will try to be all right till the end."

After pitching shut-out ball for six innings, Willis weakened when his support fell off, and Selee's men had little trouble in finding the ball. The early part of the contest was all Boston, and before the home team woke up the students had a lead of three runs, which looked mighty good.

RAIN STOPS CRICKET.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 13.—When stumps were drawn in the second day's play of the international cricket match between Canada and United States the Canucks had lost eight wickets with a grand total of 343, or fourteen more runs than the Yankees made in the first inning. A thunder storm cut short the play, which will be resumed to-day.

MUNROE THROWN AGAIN.

ELMIRA, July 13.—Jack Munroe's wrestling tour isn't much of a success as far as winning bouts goes. He met Ed Atherton here and the miner was beaten in two out of three falls.

SECOND BATTLE FOR BIG PURSE

Dorchester High School park will be alive with fans this afternoon when those hot rival bunches, the All-South Bostons and the Lovells of Dorchester hook up at 3:30.

This is the second in a series of three games for a purse of $100. In the last contest at South Boston it was a gruelling battle for thirteen innings, which goes to show that there will be something doing this afternoon.

Powers and McLaughlin will be in the points for the lads from the Peninsular district, while McCue will deliver the goods for the Lowells with Howley of South Quincy doing the backstop work. Michael J. Sullivan is booked to umpire.

BIG TROTS AT COLUMBUS.

In the big trotting meet of the week at Columbus, O., a lot of Grand Circuit material will make starts. Next week the most prominent meeting will be at Windsor, Ont.

MILLIGAN A MARK.

PROVIDENCE, July 13.—Little wonder the New York Giants let Pitcher Milligan go if he couldn't do better than he did against the Jersey City team at Melrose Park. He was pounded hard all the way through by the Skeeters, who won 7 to 0.

TWO AUTOMOBILES PROMINENT IN THE MOUNT WASHINGTON CONTESTS.

This machine has attracted no end of attention among the automobile men at Mount Washington. This photograph was taken by a BOSTON AMERICAN camera immediately after the record-breaking run.

MERCEDES OUT OF AUTO BOAT RACES

Special to the Boston American.

MARBLEHEAD, July 13.—The third day's racing of auto boats under the auspices of the Eastern Yacht Club began this morning off Marblehead Harbor. The water was quite smooth and the weather clearing.

Another accident to the Mercedes put her out of business for the day, much to the disappointment of everybody. In the races of Monday she became disabled. The work of repairing was rushed and it was confidently expected that she would be able to take part in to-day's races. But while tuning up for the sport this morning, she went wrong again and had to be towed back. She may be in shape for a trial to-morrow.

Among the interested spectators to-day was C. Oliver Iselin, the noted New York yachtsman, who has successfully managed many cup defenders. He was a guest on board the committee boat Fallas, and watched the performance of the auto boats closely.

The sport began at 10:45, when the Autowin went over the course alone to qualify for the Gay Cup. The Naughty Girl, which was to have been her competitor, lived up to her name and did not appear.

At 11 o'clock the race of first-class launches began. The starters were the Flat I., Solace and Sapho. The last two were the recipients of considerable time allowance from the Flat, which made a poor start, but quickly overhauled her enemies and was the first to make the circuit of 6⅞ miles in twenty-five minutes. The Solace was second, six minutes behind.

Two boats, the Haldee and Elizabeth, started in the race for second-class launches at 11:05. The Haldee established a slight lead, but she has to give her opponent time allowance.

At 11:10 the third-class launches started. There were only three of them and they maneuvred for the start, the Firefly getting the best of it by eight seconds. The others in the race were the It and the Little Egypt.

Five boats in the race for fourth class special dories got away at 11:15, with Mr. Whittier's boat in the lead.

The It and the Autowin are the only boats left in the race for the Gay cup.

"GOOD THINGS" DUE TO GO THROUGH

NEW YORK, July 13.—A soft track for Brighton is due just now. If the footing does not hold fast and fair look out for something spectacular in the way of money-getting long shots. There are several "good things" in the card to-day, and, according to connections, they are to go through this very afternoon.

Tyron, in the first race, is whispered as a sure winner over Lady Prudence, Belle of Portland, Bound Brook and the other choices in the very commonplace field which will be seen at the post in the introductory event.

Then Gay Boy is put down by men who ought to know as the real thing in the Jamaica selling stakes. Lady Frances is another likely one. Much interest will centre in the Toboggan in the fifth race. This fellow is said to be in better form than ever. Toboggan is going to be the Keene handicap reliance at the Saratoga, and this race will afford a direct line on his true ability. All in all, this will be one of the best days of the whole meeting.

SPEEDY MAINE HORSES.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., July 13.—Maine horses carried off the palms and purses at the Woodstock carnival races. Iniquity, owned by Allan Brooks, of Bangor, took the 2:20 trot or pace in straight heats in a field of six. Best time 2:17¼. Tom Phair, owned by Mayor J. M. Johnson, of Calais, lost the first heat of the 2:28 pace or trot, but took the next three handily, his best time being 2:20¼.

FAVORITES FOR FINALS.

NEW YORK, July 13.—In the second day of the tennis tourney of the Country Club of Westchester, Beals Wright and Holcombe Ward again won, and are the favorites for taking the finals. They defeated Larned and Denhurst, after an interesting four-set match. The Wrenn brothers also won their games, beating Clothier and E. Larned.

DAN PATCH'S EASY TIME

M. E. McHenry does not seem in a hurry to take Dan Patch (1:56¼) to train. He won a race last week at Fort Erie with All Blue, and has received a license to train from the Jockey Club.

Meantime Trainer Hersey and M. W. Savage, the horse's owner, are giving Dan Patch his work. To date he has not beaten 2:15, and yet those who have seen him work say he is as good as last year. It's a pity Mr. Savage will not race the champion against Prince Alert (1:59½), on account of the latter wearing hopples. If they could be matched, the local people would pay well to get the attraction.

PRIVATE FIGHT AT GOTHAM

NEW YORK, July 13.—For a side bet and gate receipts "Kid" Murphy will try to stop Eddy Powers, the East Side bantam, in twenty rounds before a private club on July 25 in this city.

RACING PURSE HELD UP.

WORCESTER, July 13.—In the 2:32 pace of the opening day of the Worcester Driving Park Company's meet, the winner of the race was not officially announced. May L. C. heads the summary, but the purse will be held up pending an investigation as to the mare's identity.

It has been said a number of times, since Bobby Lowe has taken the captaincy reins in his hands, that the Detroits have improved. This seems evident, as lately they have played some rare good ball. They work with more snap and are doing better work with the stick.

Bobby Lowe was always a hustler himself, and it is no wonder that his team is rounding into faster form. Bobby is one of those players who like to keep on the jump all the time. No matter what the stage of the game he is on his feet, moving about like a whirlwind.

Although the Tigers are now in seventh place, just one peg ahead of Washington, they expect to overtake St. Louis before long and leave the McAleer trope far behind. Lowe and Ed Barrow have an idea that they can force their way to the first division. This they could do, if they play as they have in the past two weeks. Neither Philadelphia or Cleveland are playing very good ball these days, and it might not be difficult for the Detroits to overtake these two teams.

There was scarcely anything doing at the Commonwealth, this morning, where the Tigers are stopping. Most of the players lounged about the hotel during the forenoon. However, Stovall and Carr went down to the beach last night and had a good time. The other players were content to stay about the hotel doors.

Killian will be on the firing line this afternoon. He is in fine fettle and hopes to defeat the champs. It was Edwin Killion who twirled the fifteen-inning game against "Cy" Young, when the two met the last time the Tigers were in this city.

It should be a grand battle with Young in the box for Boston and Killian on the firing line for the visitors. These two artists are capable of throwing grand ball and this afternoon should prove no exception to the rule.

Killian's success since he broke into the major league ranks has been great. As soon as he had quit Rockford and came to Detroit he jumped into instant favor with the fans by reason of his earnest work in the box. He is now regarded as one of the two winning pitchers of the Tigers.

"I'm going to try hard to beat the world-beaters, if I go in this afternoon," said Killian. "I never felt better in my life. My pitching wing is in excellent shape and I think I should have better luck this time than pitching fifteen innings and losing the battle by a hair's breadth."

The Tigers are thoroughly aroused on account of that beating which the Bostons administered yesterday. They had the game safe when the troublesome Bostons came up and took it away. The Tigers are out for revenge and they expect the fruits of victory will be theirs.

JOHN L.'S OLD FRIEND DEAD

NEW YORK, July 13.—Much regret was expressed by sporting men to-day when they learned of the death of Phil Casey, the former handball champion, at his home in Brooklyn. He had been ill many weeks from cancer of the stomach. He was unmarried and was about sixty years of age.

Casey trained John L. Sullivan for the fight with Corbett at New Orleans, and was a life-long friend of the great pugilist. Casey was for years a member of the Consolidated Exchange, but for weeks past had not been on the floor.

WALTHAM BOY PUT NEW YORKER OUT

ROCKLAND, Me., July 13.—It took Johnny Bryson, of Waltham, just five rounds to dispose of Johnnie Burns, of New York, and so the ten-round fight terminated when half the distance was covered.

The boys went away at an even gait, both doing some clever foot work. Burns made the better impression in the second round, but Bryson got to him with some stinging rights.

It was evident that Bryson was not in the best of shape, as his action became sluggish after a spurt. Bryson began to go strong in the third round, and his forcing tactics worried Burns.

The New Yorker was surprised at the liveliness of Bryson and was unable to respond to his onslaughts.

Burns was not easily put out of it, and withstood Bryson's attack.

Bryson rained rights and lefts on Burns's head in the fourth and at one stage had the Gothamite in a groggy condition.

Bryson landed several terrific wallops on his opponents' head, but Burns was a tough proposition and managed to stay the round.

Bryson started in fast in the fifth to do the job in quick shape. He swept Burns off his feet and they hardly met in the centre of the ring when Burns went to the floor from a right smash to the jaw.

Burns did not wait to take the count, but was on his feet immediately, but was clearly in no condition to continue.

He went down three times and on the last trip he remained on the mat while he was counted out.

Local men paired up for the preliminaries.

LOU DILLON'S HARD TASKS

Local trainers consider that Millard Sanders is keeping Lou Dillon under a strain, giving her the weekly workouts at leveland around 2:05, and believe that ort of fitting will never bring her to the re with an even chance to trot in 2:00, alone 1:58½.

Rarely have fast horses stood up under ch fast work covering so many weeks t one stretch.

On the 30th, the mare is to meet E. E. Smathers's king of trotting geldings, Major Delmar, 1:59¾, owners up, over the Cleveland track, to wagon. It was at one time planned to start the queen to high wheel sulky to lower the 2:08¼ of Sunol and incidentally cut Maud S's 2:08¾, recorded at the Cleveland track, July 30, 1885.

Already Lou Dillon has trotted three miles below 2:05, and two others below 2:07 in public, within a month. Her rival has not been stretched as yet, but indulged at short distances at a 2:00 clip.

GARDNER WILL FIGHT AT BUTTE

Special to the Boston American.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 13.—Jimmy Gardner, the crack Lowell, Mass., lightweight, passed through here to-day on his way to Butte, Mont. Before the Miners' A. C. he is to fight Willy Fitzgerald on July 23. They will box twenty rounds, and a great battle is expected. Both lads are clever and have good wallops, which may end the fight before it goes the distance.

Gardner said he hoped to win, as he was in good shape. "If I beat Fitz I will go after the championship with Joe Gans," said Gardner.

"If Gans meets me at weight I am confident I can win from him," said Jimmy.

"But if Jack O'Keefe wants my game I am willing to take him on before I make a match with Gans for premier laurels. I see O'Keefe has $1,000 to bind a match with me for six or twenty rounds. If the Butte club will match us, I will fight him at 138 pounds, as I bar none of the men anywhere my weight, though I can make 133 easily. But Jack won't find the extra five pounds of much help to him if we meet," said Gardner, confidently.

POLICE CHAMPS COURT SQ. STARS

As the speedy diamond team of the Second Precinct, under Police Captain Gaskin, have twice polished off the stars of the First Precinct, and also beat the harbor squad baseball crew 20 to 6, the Court square wonders claim the police championship of the Hub.

"This bunch of Mike Devine's in the Fourth Precinct, or those husky South Boston chaps of Jack Lampe's, can't hold a candle to us," chirps the downtown brigade, whose chief adviser and all-round rooter is Police Lieutenant Frohock, who was a crack old diamond sticker himself once. But the Court square team, whose battery, Hurley and Fitz, can do all kinds of perky stunts with a sphere, say they'll agree to trim their rivals any time in a flag series.

Among the big victories which the Second Precinct stellar lights garnered were two wins over the North End cracks, 13 to 10 and 17 to 11, good scores all right for teams that don't get much time to practice field stunts or shine up their batting eyes.

Big Alec Lindsay, a police giant, who has stopped crossing runaways and saved a score of lives, is the star hitter of the Court square nine, though the whole team are big wallops with the wagon tongue.

POLICE CRACKS IN FAST CLASH

SALEM, July 13.—The police ball teams of Essex County are fast rounding into shape, and next month will see some lively old contests. Lynn is practicing on the beach grounds, while Lawrence is the proud possessor of Wadlyn and Linehan, the old New England League battery. Salem will have a fast aggregation to represent the Witch City.

MR. A. S. SWASEY.

Mr. Swasey is the designer of the Autowin.

YALE-HARVARD TEAM ARRIVES

QUEENSTOWN, July 13.—The White Star liner Teutonic arrived here to-day with the athletes from Yale and Harvard who will compete with Oxford and Cambridge. The men are all in excellent condition, and are confident that they will be able to outpoint the Englishmen.

BILLY GARDNER WILL GO CANOLE

Special to the Boston American.

NEW BEDFORD, July 13.—If the plans of Joe Burke, manager, and Matchmaker Shea, of the Whaling City A. C., go through, the next big battle to be decided here will bring together Billy Gardner, of Lowell, and Martin Canole, the Fall River lightweight.

Burke and Shea say they will hang up a big purse for these two crack boys to come together in a fifteen or twenty round battle. All that awaits is Canole's acceptance. Willy Fitzgerald beat the Mill City lad but he is still a favorite down this way with many fight fans who went clear to 'Frisco to see the bout between Canole and Jimmy Britt.

In behalf of Gardner, his manager, Tommy Maguire, of Boston, says the fans won't have to travel 3,000 miles again to see Canole get beaten, as he will bring Gardner, who beat Danny Duane in Fall River, Eddy Connolly in four rounds, Jimmy Briggs in eleven rounds, and boxed Martin Flaherty, when he was at his best, a twenty round draw, to New Bedford to fight Canole.

This stamps Gardner good enough to go against Canole. Hundreds of fight fans from Lowell and Boston will be on hand to see the battle, and as Maguire has accepted this offer made by Manager Burke, it looks as if the bout will be arranged.

WANTED ROOT TO MARRY HER

CHICAGO, July 13.—"Jack Root has been courting me for nine years and now refuses to marry me," says Miss Bernie Conkalik, in her suit for breach of promise against the boxer.

The plaintiff thinks the conqueror of George Gardner should pay her $10,000 damages.

TURF WILL MISS SPEEDY HIGHBALL

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Rarely in the history of the turf has such keen sorrow been felt all along the racing line as is manifested here to-day over the pathetic and untimely end to the great colt Highball. After the races at Brighton Beach last evening a friendly bullet added the coup de grace to W. M. Scheftel's grand $50,000 joint champion with Hamburg Belle of last season's two-year-olds, and the winner this season of the American Derby, at Chicago, which was worth $26,325. All told, he has won close to $75,000.

It was while running in the Seagate Stakes, at Brighton Beach, and shortly after he had turned into the home stretch with his two competitors, Knight Errant and St. Valentine, that the accident happened to him which broke the cannon bone of his off fore leg and splintered the coffin bone into several pieces.

When the cold had warmed up, previous to his race, it was thought by several close observers that he favored his near foreleg, and it would seem as if something hurt him during the progress of the race, since he tried to run out at the paddock turn, and Odom, his jockey, had to tap him on the neck with the whip to keep him straight. He suddenly began to falter and to hobble on three legs. His off foreleg, which but a few moments before had been bearing him along in the struggle for victory, now hung limp and powerless from the knee.

The Jockey Club's veterinary surgeon was promptly in attendance on the crippled giant, and Dr. Farley, of New York, too, carefully inspected the injured limb. There was no help for the sufferer. He was put in a sling in his stall to save him pain, and two hours later was shot. Twenty-five thousand dollars insurance w . carried on him.

SPECIAL PRIZES FOR BENCH SHOW

One of the big Summer benchings will be that of the New England Collie Club at the Point of Pines, Revere, Mass., on July 20 next.

Judging will commence at 3 o'clock promptly, dogs must be on hand at noon, and entries will close with the Committee of Arrangements, Tom B. Middlebrooke, Robert Bowie and Mrs. Marion MacLellan, on Thursday, July 14.

There will be twenty-three classes for dogs and bitches, ranging from puppy dogs under six months to the best kennel of four. Even the veteran friends of man over five years of age get a show in No. 23 class with the judge, Robert Bowie, an ardent dog fancier and member of the New England Collie Club. Probably a dozen special prizes or so will be given, the best seven being as follows:

Special Prizes.

1. A member will give a box of Perfectos for best American bred, tri-color.
2. Mrs. MacClellan will give a fountain pen for best American bred in novice classes.
3. The Revere Collie Kennels will give a silver souvenir for best American bred, head not to count.
4. Thos. Greive will give a special for best-headed collie.
5. Westridge Kennels will give a cup for best dog or bitch, open to all.
6. Geo. W. Parker will give a piece of cut glass for best puppy, dog or bitch.
7. Westridge Kennels will give a registered Airedale bitch in whelp for best American bred dog or bitch.

NEW METHOD TO START THE RACES

Up to yesterday few horsemen fancied at there was to be a trotting meeting at Brighton Beach track this season, notthstanding the claiming of dates. It was ught that the Empire City track would the scene of a two weeks' meeting with uplicate program of events.

Yesterday, Secretary Al Reeves sent out he open events planned for each track, follows:

rotting—2:07, 2:08, 2:09, 2:11, 2:12, 2:13, 2:15, John H. Shults Experimental Stake for $1,500; , 2:17, 2:18, 2:21 and 2:23. The Shults cial is for the 2:15 class.

Pacing—2:05, 2:07, 2:09, 2:10, 2:11, 2:12, 2:14, 2:15, 2:17, 2:20 and 2:22.

In addition there are many leading stake events, entries to which have closed and horses named. The dash plan of racing, with such an array of classes as listed above and at various distances, should furnish loyal enthusiasts a satisfactory fortnight of exciting racing in harness. the John H. Shults Experimental Stake for $1,500; himself. Entrance is but 2½ per cent. and all forfeits go with the stake. It is to be hoped his innovation meets general favor, for it may open up a new and improved order of events in the light harness pacing division.

A "guide" on horseback will conduct the starter to the wire, the word "go" depending on the alignment with his mount. Any starter taking the word in advance of the "guide" is unplaced in the heat. Surely, this radical departure will give the orators plenty of opportunity to talk matters over with the judges.

BIG TENNIS MEN IN THIS TOURNEY

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, July 13.—Rain was the cause of the postponement of the opening of the Canadian tennis championships here. All the cracks are on hand, and some fine sport is promised before the week is over. Some of the entries are:

Beals Wright, who has just beaten Larned and Whitman in the round robin tournament; Waldner, Chicago, Western double champion; R. G. Hunt, the California crack; F. W. Cole, Princeton; A. H. Lewis, Yale; Clarence Hobart, Middle States champion; H. J. Holt, Longwood, Boston; J. C. Wright, interscholastic champion; Bell, California champion; Edgar Leonard, Harvard; Cragin, New York; Paterson, who held Quebec and Ontario championships; Hodge, champion of Buffalo Club handicap; Glassco, Ontario double champion; McMaster and Hall, the Toronto Club experts; F. W. Kerr, Peterboro; McLaughlin and Bissell, Buffalo Club experts; "Detherly" Doherty, Uxbridge; Kirkover, Buffalo; Read, Boston; Choppin, Newmarket; Fitzgibbon and Bryant, Fort Erie; Dexter and Robert Rumsey, New York; Cutler, novice champion; E. S. Glassco and George Carscallen, Hamilton.

HERRERA MAY MEET BUD RYAN

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 13.—As both fighters are willing, it is probable Aurelio Herrera, who conquered Benny Yanger, the "Fighting Bootblack," will be matched with Bud Ryan, of this city, on July 20 or a week later. They will clash for six rounds at the Battery D. A. C.

MACK AFTER CORBETT NOW

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Willie Mack, the Brooklyn featherweight, is after a match with any of the top-notchers. Mack would like to mix matters with "Corbett," whose sparing partner he once was. Mack will make any weight suggested by the former featherweight champion and post a forfeit of $500 to show his good faith.

BREEZY SPORT AT YACHT RACES

Some hot sport will mark the big races of the Mosquito Fleet Yacht Club at South Boston Saturday next. Numerous entries have been made by ardent Hub yachtsmen, as it will be one of the big deciding races of the season in the bay.

Among the fast boats booked to scud before the wind are the Triton, Emma C., Sentinel and the Egeria.

Largest of these is the Triton, a sloop owned by Vice-Commodore Thomas J. Kelly. She is 40 feet long, 13 feet beam, and ought to be among the winners.

DOLLY DILLON IN VIENNA

NEW YORK, July 13.—Dolly Dillon, 2:06¾, formerly owned by J. D. Callery, of Pittsburg, won her first race at Vienna recently. She cost the foreigners considerably above $2,500 before shipping, and will have to do better to pay her way, as this is the last year they can race her on account of her age.

The fast stallion, Prince Caton, 2:17¼, sold during the Winter by John Splan to Prince Smith, of Vienna, arrived from the West on Thursday, but cannot be shipped abroad till the 23d inst. On Saturday agents for foreign buyers were at the matinee looking for a mare with a low record that could trot in 2:10 under the watch. There was none such on view, nor does there seem to be many trotters of 2:10 calibre this season at the local track, although a dozen of the pacers can or already have shown 2:10 to harness.

CHASE TROTS NEW RECORD

Special to the Boston American.

COLUMBUS, O., July 13.—This season's trotting record was placed at 2:08¼ by Chase, by Keeler, in Ed Geers's string, after a grand burst of speed against time in this city.

STINSON SHAKES OFF OLD HOODOO

Bill Stinson was tendered an ovation at Charles River Park as he won a race and for once got away from the hoodoo that has followed him so persistently. It has generally happened that some accident would occur when Stinson was riding in good form, and snatch victory out of his reach, but he transferred his troublesome phantom to the other fellow, and as a result pocketed first money, and the crowd was immensely pleased.

It was a three-heat match of ten-mile stretches, and Jimmy Moran, who filled in Caldwell's place, was picked with Stinson for the first heat.

Moran, after going four laps, gave the signal to the referee to stop the race, as the roller on his motor was stuck, but it was unheeded, and rather than take chances on an accident Moran withdrew.

Moran had his worst experience on the track this season in the second heat, when he tumbled on the fourth mile and his front tire sprung a leak. He left a lot of skin on the track, and was a study in red and white as he was being fixed up by the doctor.

"I'll never ride behind the big motors again," wailed Jimmy. "I knew something would happen to me if I kept following them."

Stinson and Butler had an interesting finish in the third heat.

Both were shaken in the last mile, when close together, but Stinson got hitched first and won by half a length.

Amateur Games Wanted.

Puritans, of Charlestown, want games with any ten or eleven-year-old teams. Philip Smith, manager, No. 89 Parker street, Charlestown.

Lakesides, of Arlington, fast semi-professionals, want a game away from home with some strong team July 16, a fair guarantee expected. Frank A. O'Brien, manager, No. 11 Chauncy street, Boston.

Metropolitan A. A., of Somerville, have July 23 open, and would like to play out of town if expenses are paid, Elmwoods and Greenwoods, of Cambridge, Millmonts, of Roxbury, or any nineteen-twenty-year-old team preferred. Arthur L. Jackson, manager, No. 160 Lowell street, Somerville.

Everetts have a few open dates, July 30, August 6 and 13, and want games with such teams as Stoughton, Belmont A. A., Melrose A. A., Neponset A. A., Stoneham and Forest Hills. Telephone A. Elmstrom, manager, 1213 Oxford.

Boston Bookbinding Company team, of Cambridge, have an open date July 16, and want to hear from some strong amateur team who have grounds. F. C. Pendleton, manager, No. 11 Arrow street, Cambridge.

W. E. Russells, of the South End, want games with the best fourteen and fifteen-year-old teams in the State, Crescents or the Vernons, of Dorchester, preferred. J. Scully, manager, No. 37 Story street, Boston.

City Points want a game with some eighteen-nineteen-year-old team for July 16. A. Lloyd, manager, No. 342 E. Eighth street, South Boston.

Somerville Reds will have to cancel the game with the Parks, of Somerville, for July 23. Joe Burns, manager, No. 118 Cambridge street, Charlestown.

Seasides, of Charlestown, want games with strong teams around Boston. They have secured the services of that strong battery, Harney and Frawley, from the Bent's team. Games with either the Father Mathews or the Bunker Hill Democratic Club preferred. P. Harry Cannon, manager, No. 4 Beacham street, Charlestown.

South Bostons, thoroughly reorganized since the first of the season, claim they have won the last nine games played, defeating such strong teams as Neponset, Strandways, South Boston Reds and the Hilbachs (twice). Would like to hear from Wakefield, Wellington, Braintree and other strong teams, open date July 16. Joseph Pamel, manager, No. 64 H street, South Boston.

Leon A. C. want games with any fifteen or sixteen-year-old teams. Leo Burgess, manager, No. 11 Parker street, Charlestown.

Forest Hills Juniors want games with strong seventeen-year-old uniformed teams. F. W. Every, manager, No. 26 Winter street, Boston.

Orient A. C., of Dorchester, want games with twelve and thirteen-year-old teams. We have secured Arthur McMahon in the place of Jones. He is a crack player, and is expected to make good. He is especially good at catching and second base, and is also a heavy hitter. Martin P. J. Daley, manager, No. 59 Crescent avenue, Dorchester.

Manager George E. St. Thomas, of No. 56 Grand street, Worcester, writes the BOSTON AMERICAN as follows: "I have a fast bunch of players that I want to stack against the best you have around Boston in the twenty-twenty-two-year-old class, Hemlocks, Howards, Newton Upper Falls, Watertown, Holliston, Ashland, Natick and Framingham preferred."

Marion A. C., of South Boston, challenge the Manhattan A. A., of Cambridge, for a game on July 16, on the Manhattan grounds. Edward Donovan, No. 174 C street, South Boston.

A Sweet, Loving Spirit The Best Beauty-Maker

Copyright, 1904, by American-Journal-Examiner.

THERE is a young woman of my acquaintance who is taking most scientific care of her person in order to preserve her beauty. She is young, in the very morning of life, and nature gave her beautiful features and complexion and form.

She studies the fashions and plans becoming costumes, and she patronizes the "specialists" who know how to beautify and preserve the skin and hair and nails and figure.

She takes physical exercises to keep her body supple, and all this is sensible and wise. The body is the soul's temple, and should be cared for.

But the most important factor in feminine beauty this young woman has utterly neglected—the mind. She neither reads nor studies.

Worse still, she harbors resentful thoughts toward her friends and acquaintances for the least offence, or what she imagines an offence. Unless her associates agree with her on all matters she assumes a haughty and cold air, and sets her face in a frozen mould, that unconsciously to herself is day by day ruining he rbeauty. All her friends see and realize the fact. The eyes are becoming hard, the mouth petulent, the whole expression disagreeable, the whole woman unbearable. Adduses no control in the matter of appetite, and that fault is making more ravage upon her beauty than all the specialists can remedy.

MRS. ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Poor foolish girl! what a misfortune that she cannot realize the colossal importance of Right Thoughts and Will Power in the preservation of beauty. A loving, sweet spirit is the greatest beauty specialist of all.

Even a plain woman who begins at eighteen to cultlavte the mind and heart and soul can be beautiful at thirty.

And at forty she will be still more beautiful, and will attract the admiration of all eyes, where the sculptured face, with cruel or cold heart and uncultivated mind, will pass unnoticed.

I saw an old lady close to her seventies once with the most exquisite mouth—it was soft as a child's, with sweetly moulded corners and sympathetic curves to the lips, and the whole expression was suggestive of the magical word—Love.

A dozen young women in the room would pass without attracting the attention this charming old lady won.

Angels of goodness and amiability in the way of sweet thoughts and worthy habits had chiseled that mouth for a lifetime. Every thought, every emotion, every impulse, leaves its mark upon the face, and the most beautiful features cannot make a beautiful woman at twenty-five or thirty if the mind previous to that time has been ruled by anger, revenge, petulance, selfishness and indolence.

Remember the importance of right thoughts, young woman, as you sit in your negligee gown, enjoying the manipulations of the beauty specialst.

Girls Who Do Their Work Well Are Sure to Succeed

Copyright, 1904, by American-Journal-Examiner.

GIRLS, a good many of you are perhaps not doing just the kind of work you want to do. You feel that you were cut out for something better.

The girl in the factory feels that she would have made a first class stenographer. The stenographer feels that her true vocation was acting. The girl in the shop would give anything to stay at home and keep house—and so it goes.

What I want to say is that even the thing you don't want to do is worth doing well.

Put all your heart and energy into whatever falls to your lot.

The way to get on is by doing even the small things so well that you compel others to recognize your ability.

Seize your opportunity and make the best of it.

If you succeed in your uncongenial occupation and manage to save a little money, you will, perhaps, in time be able to adopt the one that you feel most fitted for.

Keep bright and keep well and you are pretty sure to get on.

Look on the sunny side of life. Nothing is so bad but what it might be worse, you know.

If you lead a sensible, normal life, taking a fair amount of exercise and getting all the sleep you need, you will be healthy, and health is the greatest blessing one can have.

Do not be discouraged because you cannot achieve your desire in one stride.

Many great men and women have struggled through years of failure before they reached their goal.

And even if you never reach it, you will have succeeded in carrying bravely and uncomplainingly an uncongenial burden.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Remember that "they also serve who only stand and wait," and though you may not be a glittering comet of success flashing your light on every one, you may be one of the lesser stars that shine steadily the year round.

Satisfy your own inner consciousness that you are doing your very best, and more than that one cannot do.

Don't let yourself off too easily. We are all of us great smoothers of our conscientious scruples. We must treat conscience very severely in order to get a fair judgment from it.

If we do our duty toward our friends and acquaintances then it is none of our responsibility how they treat us. We are right, and that is all we have to bother over.

Don't go about with hurt feelings all the time, and the idea that no one understands you and every one is down on you.

The moment you find yourself in that spirit, houseclean your mind, give it a healthy tonic of common reason, and the ugly feelings will all melt away.

Sometimes we very much over-estimate our powers; our ambitions are stronger than our talents.

We feel that we are Melbas, whereas we are are only little songbirds whose "peep-peep" will never be heard outside our own immediate circle.

But never mind. As long as we sing sweetly and merrily, what difference does it make? We are doing our best.

So, go ahead, dear girls, even if you can't have just the world you crave, and don't forget that the quickest way to better yourself is to do your very best.

Try and make your work perfect in every detail.

If you are sewing, sew neatly and firmly; if you stand behind a counter be courteous to your customers and honorable to your employers, etc.

Everything that is worth doing at all is worth doing well.

Never lose sight of the fact that even if it is not the work you choose, it is the work you are responsible for. Every effort is a step in the ladder of success.

What a Minister's Wife Saw as a Tramp

Copyright, 1904, by American-Journal-Examiner.

LONDON, July 13.—Many and varied are the newly acquired experiences of women, and great is the devotion shown by them in order to rightly understand how the other half live; and I know of no better instance of self-sacrifice than that made by a minister's wife who determined to gain personal experience as a woman tramp.

For five days and for five nights she prosecuted her social investigation. Mrs. Higgs has been for many years interested in rescue work, and it was her experience in this line of philanthropy which led her to believe that there was something in our social arrangements which made for the creation of destitution, and that those who were once forced down on the road of life had no chance to rise again.

She has for some years visited lodging houses and questioned the girls who came to her for help, and yet she could never arrive at the exact cause which accounted for the degradation of so many; and, therefore, in spite of the repulsion which must necessarily exist for the sordid and hideous surroundings of a tramp's life, she decided to take one of her helpers and go on the highway.

Dressed shabbily, they were still respectable and clean, and they carried soap, a towel and a change of stockings wrapped in an old shawl, and they took two shillings and sixpence between them.

They spent their first night in the Municipal lodging house, where they shared a bed for sixpence, and were obliged to wash in the kitchen sink, used by men and women alike. But those who frequented this lodging house told them that it was a palace in comparison with what they usually had to put up with.

The first experience, however, which met them was the fact that when women are no longer well dressed, but are shabby and down at heel, the manner in which they are addressed by men and the attitude of men towards them is distinctly changed.

"I had never realized before," said this courageous woman, "the difference that a lady's dress made, or the clean attire of a respectable working woman. The look which is turned upon a destitute woman is altogether a new experience."

LADY HENRY SOMERSET.

But the horrors of life which lay before them were unfolded in their fullest degree in a common lodging house. There they found a colored man of the lowest type waited on by a woman who was supposed to be his wife.

The conversation turned on the treatment of woman, and several of those present declared that a woman loved a man better who ill-treated her.

An anecdote was related of a woman who used to try and hide from her husband when she heard him sing a certain song, knowing it meant that she was in for a bad time. One day he caught her and beat her severely with a red hot poker. The police got him but she refused to bear witness against him.

The men and women who composed this society had sunk to the very lowest moral dregs, and the conversation was blasphemous and disgusting. But by-and-by some one broke into song, and to the astonishment of the two ladies, when they had retired upstairs, they heard the old hymn come floating on the air, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," and for two hours comic songs and Sankey's hymns alternated from the squalid lodging house kitchen.

Mrs. Higgs's description of the conditions under which the people slept and prepared their food reveals to us something of the state into which men and women drift, and from which apparently there is little hope of rescue.

From the common lodging house they went to the workhouse tramp wards. The food there was absolutely uneatable. There was far too much for each person, and they were told that they could throw it away if they did not wish to take it. The gruel is made overnight, and in Summer turns sour, and tons of good oatmeal provided by the rate-payers are thus rendered practically useless.

The moral of the whole story seems to be that the workhouse tramp ward is a degrading element, and keeps a woman down, more perhaps than any other agency.

We sigh here for the German system, with a proper supervision of lodging houses, and the provision of accommodation by way of shelters, with relief stations, where work can be supplied, in order to enable those who wish to rise to have the chance of doing so.

Women Teachers Have Helped Make the Nation

Copyright, 1904, by American-Journal-Examiner.

THE position taken by the committee appointed by the Male Teachers' Association in New York recently to investigate the status of the schools is very surprising, especially as it is based upon criticisms made by Mr. Alfred Moseley, of England, who criticises severely the American practice of employing women as teachers, and condemns particularly their admission as such in colleges on equal footing with men, charging, erroneously, that the large number of female teachers employed has a tendency to make male pupils effeminate.

If the committee had gone a step further in analyzing Mr. Moseley's criticism they would have found that his position could not be sustained by facts. In business and in war Americans have displayed more manliness and courage than have our English cousins of the present and last generation, and the majority of the Americans were under the tutelage of women.

It is not true that women govern and educate by appeals to sentiment, and not by impressing upon the pupils in them the highest and noblest principle, and that a thing must be done because it is right to do it.

On the contrary, it is this instilling in them the highest and noblest principles that has brought the whole nation up to the loftiest standurd of moral and noble womanhood and manhood that has given Americans the first place among all nations in humanitarianism and advanced civilization.

The charge of want of manliness has never been brought against the American people. In war and in peace they have won the admiration of the whole world by their moral courage and daring on the field of battle and in the business world.

Their inventions and dauntless courage in private or national enterprises have given them phenomenal success and excited the envy of rival nations.

It is, perhaps, unfair to remind Mr. Moseley that there were charges during the Boer war of lack of courage on the part of the King's officers and men, and that many blunders were made that were directly chargeable to want of intrepidity. No such accusation has ever been made against Americans.

Judging from the preponderance of male teachers in English schools, one would be justified in saying that his theory does not hold good.

That there is a large majority of female teachers in our schools is a fact. That the nation owes these noble women a debt of gratitude goes without saying. Women, since they have secured enlarged opportunities, have made marvellous strides in every department of education, science and literature, and it has really come to be a fact that men are jealous of them, and are constantly trying to rise insuperable barriers to the attainment of the high positions to which women aspire.

MRS. JOHN A. LOGAN

That they have been required to overcome greater obstacles and have been obliged to do the same work for half the salary paid to men, cannot be denied. They have also been obliged to compete with men for everything they have achieved. It has been claimed that the system of examinations was established to bar out women from places of trust and emolument.

The sequel has shown that it has resulted in raising the standard of excellence of the Civil Service, professional and all vocations, that women have fairly won all they have received, and that men have lost by the adoption of the system.

Women's opportunities were multiplied primarily to enable them to fill the places of the men who were in the military and naval service during the Civil War. Since its close they have held these places and have acquired innumerable others by dint of their perseverance, indomitable will, industry, sobriety, ability and faithfulness.

The position of this committee comes in bad grace from an association of American male teachers, who probably owe their own education to female teachers who taught them in their youth. It is hard to believe they would be so ungrateful and unfair.

Doubtless in many of the districts in the large cities where foreign and sometimes vicious people are in the majority it would be better to employ male teachers, as some of those children are very refractory and are not amenable to appeals to their manliness and principles.

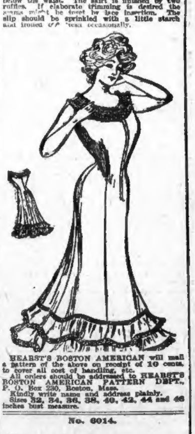
Neither sex possesses all the qualities necessary for the successful training of the human mind. The combined natural and acquired qualifications are indispensable to the education of a great, intelligent, free nation like ours.

MRS. JOHN A. LOGAN.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN

Ladies' Princess Slip

A dainty little idea that should meet with the approval of every woman is the Princess Slip, which may be made of colored lawn or batiste, or of white cambric, and used as a corset cover and skirt. These lawn slips are much more used than silk, as the latter does not wear well. By having pink, lavender, green or blue slips, a number of charming effects may be realised with only two or three gowns. The slip, which may be made with round or square neck, is close fitting, with a little fulness just below the waist. The skirt is finished by two ruffles. If elaborate trimming is desired the seams might be inset by lace insertion. The slip should be sprinkled with a little starch and ironed [illegible] occasionally.



HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN will mail a pattern of the above on receipt of 10 cents, to cover all cost of handling, etc.

All orders should be addressed to HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN DEPT., P. O. Box 230, Boston, Mass.

Kindly write name and address plainly.

The Unsentimental Girl

BOSTON AMERICAN SHORT STORY

By Grif Alexander

Copyright, 1904, by American-Journal-Examiner.

THE affair properly began when they were little boy and little girl together, but the man in the case didn't know this until their lives had become happily commonplace.

Little Johnny McWhortle was showing off before the new girl, little May Venmore and Miss Penelope, who conducted a private school in a little back parlor, felt that the time was near at hand when she would have to expel Master McWhortle, as he was becoming too big and too unruly to be properly handled.

If the German band had not began to play in the street he might not have been expelled, but the lively strains of "Dixie" were too much for him and, in the absence of Miss Penelope, he climbed upon the table and kept time to the music with his feet. Miss Penelope caught him at it and promptly turned him out of doors.

Johnny was sent to the public school after that, but May still saw him at times and still worshipped him with all the strength of her seven years.

May's love was not to be despised. Her mamma kept a candy store and she was an only child.

May's mamma shortly afterward moved from the neighborhood and the incident was closed for Johnny.

Ten years later John D. McWhortle sailed for Paris to study painting. On the way he became interested in a fellow passenger, a girl of nineteen or twenty, dark-eyed, cherry-lipped and with a slim but graceful carriage. He sought and secured an introduction to her. She was disposed to be friendly with him from the first. They spent much time together, walking up and down the deck, looking over the sides of the vessel, watching the porpoises or admiring the beauties of sky and sea.

He admitted to himself that it was a case of love at first sight with him. But he had his career before him. He was not in a position to marry. But no matter. He would speak to her anyhow.

He did. One evening as they sat on deck he placed a shawl around her and didn't remove his arm. "May," he said, "I love you. Some day when I have won fortune I want you to marry me. Will you?"

She gently removed his arm. "Some day when you have won fortune will be time enough to ask that question," she said, calmly.

"Do you love me?" he demanded.

"Mr. McWhortle," she said, "we had better not continue this conversation, for it will only give pain to both of us."

She stood up and made as though she would leave the deck. Springing to his feet he enfolded her in his arms and kissed her again and again. She made no resistance, but she did not respond.

He released her. "You are cold as ice," he declared. "You are the kind of a woman who will take a man's love and give him nothing in return."

She looked at him curiously and left him.

She avoided him the next day, staying close to the old lady with whom she was traveling, but in the evening, in the cabin, he had time to whisper to her: "Please come on deck. I have something to say to you." And she went.

It was the girl who first spoke. "John," she said, and he felt a thrill of pleasure as she spoke his name, "we might as well understand each other first as last. I do like you. Perhaps I like you more and have liked you longer than you suppose. But I cannot marry you. You are likely to be poor for many years and I need money. It is a brutal way of putting it, but it is the truth."

"You have not an ounce of sentiment in your composition," he declared angrily, after he had argued with her in vain, and in anger he left her. But before they parted at Southampton he said to her: "I shall never forget you, dear."

She smiled. "You will," she said. "You have already done so once and you will do so again."

"Now what on earth did she mean by that?" he asked himself.

A young man of 22 has an excellent chance to forget. Life in the Latin quarter is calculated to put it in good working condition. If Mac, as he was called, ever thought of May it was as a mercenary young woman without a heart. He fell in love and out again very many times. And then he returned to America and hard work. He had made up his mind that he never would become a great painter, but he could draw expertly and felt that he could make a living as a newspaper artist. In this he succeeded.

One day he was assigned to make some sketches at a great charity festival and there got into conversation with a young woman whose face seemed strangely familiar. They talked of the festival, of charity work generally, of art and other things. He discovered that she, too, was an artist and begged permission to see some of her work. He spent much of his time by the booth over which she presided. He learned that her name was Miss Venmore and he wondered where he had heard the name before. He spoke his wonder and the woman smiled a little sadly.

A few days later he called at the modest little flat on Forty-fifth street. The maid said that Miss Venmore would be in in a few minutes if he cared to wait.

"You will excuse me for not rising," said an old lady, as he entered the sitting room. "I'm a martyr to rheumatism, Mr. McWhortle. May told me to expect you some time this week. I am very glad to see you. You are an artist, May tells me. May has done some very clever work herself. She has always been fond of drawing ever since she was a little girl at Clamhurst."

"Clamhurst?" said McWhortle. "This State? Why, that was my home!"

"Indeed? Yes, we lived there once upon a time. I took a little store there after my husband died. Later hard times came upon us. I was laid up with rheumatism and all our money was gone, when May secured a position as companion to a wealthy lady. With the money she earned we managed to keep our little home together."

McWhortle was interested and the time passed quickly. He had an album in his hand when May entered the room. As he arose to greet her a card dropped to the floor. It was a list of passengers on the steamship Cedric. He kept it in his hand as he talked to her, and later idly glanced at it. At the bottom of the page he saw his own name, John McWhortle, and in the opposite list the name, May Venmore. Memory returned to him. "Why, you are May Venmore!" he said.

She smiled assent.

"You know, I thought I had met you before," he said.

"But that wasn't the first time," she said.

"Your mother tells me you used to live in Clamhurst, but you must have been too young to remember me if we ever met."

"Don't you remember getting on the table and dancing when the German band played?" asked the woman.

"Why, I do," he cried. "And you were the girl with the long curls!"

"No," she said. "I had my hair cut short in these days."

CHOCOLATE PUDDING

TO two cupfuls of fine bread-crumbs add two tablespoonfuls sugar and pour into a buttered mold. Melt an ounce of grated chocolate over hot water, add two tablespoonfuls sugar, one cupful hot milk, two beaten eggs and a half teaspoonful vanilla. Pour this over the crumbs, let soak ten minutes and bake until done.

CHEESE FONDUE

ONE cupful bread-crumbs soaked in two cupfuls of milk, three eggs well beaten, pepper and salt to taste, with a dash of cayenne. Lastly one cupful grated or sliced cheese. Butter a baking dish, pour in the fondue and sprinkle with bread-crumbs. Bake quickly and serve hot.

SASHES

THE sash is quite an important article with the Summer gown this season. Among sash ribbons are some beautiful flowered designs; these are worn more with the plain colored dresses, while the plain sashes are worn with the flowered gown.

35,000 FALL RIVER WORKERS FACE CUTDOWN IN DESPAIR

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, July 13.—It has been decided that the cotton mill owners will reduce the wages of their employes 12½ per cent. M. B. Borden, of the Barnard Manufacturing Company, and chairman of the committee of five representing the mill owners, admitted to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day that the cut would be made. He said that the notice would not be posted in the various mills, however, until the latter part of this week or the first of next. This cut will affect about 35,000 men, women and children, and will cut down the working payroll, which is about $240,000 when the mills are running full time, $30,000. It is not believed that the cut will result in a general strike, although it will bring great hardship upon the mill toilers.

The old, hard facts are, and the mill owners know it, that the mill hands are in such an impoverished condition at present that they are in no position to strike. It is probable that the toilers at the looms will have to submit dumbly to the crushing blow.

Need Christian Charity.

Secretary Joseph Jackson, of the Slashers' Union, to-day said: "We have called no meetings to cover the probable cut. It will fall most heavily upon the weavers. I can't say what we will do. I don't know what the reason is for making the cut. I presume it is general condition of the country. There doesn't seem to be a demand for the output.

"But there are some mills, I notice, that can make money and pay good wages. They are run on business principles. I once said, and I repeat it, what the manufacturers of Fall River need is Christian charity and a better knowledge of the manufacturing business."

This is the position of the manufacturers as outlined by a representative: "For years the Southern mills have paid 30 per cent less wages than our mills. The other New England mills have paid 10 per cent less wages. The Fall River manufacturers cannot compete with these mills and make any money. The only thing to do is to slice down wages. I claim we pay higher wages for the same grade of work than any other place in the world."

The proposed cut will mean further destitution in Borden City, the North End mill section. Even now most of the mill hands in that part of Fall River are out of work, and have been for over two months. A few have found employment for three days a week in other mills and have earned enough to keep life in the body and a roof over the head. It is hard to see how they can suffer any further reduction in pay and live.

May Give Full Time.

"What justification do the owners make for their proposed action?" Secretary Jackson was asked.

"They say that by lowering the scale of wages 12½ per cent., or an eighth, they will be able to give full time employment to the hands and thus enable them to earn more money than they are doing at present."

"Do you think they would keep their promise?"

Mr. Jackson declined to answer the question, but others were not so reticent. One may, gray-haired and bent of back, made a statement which represents a general sentiment. He said:

"They say they will be able to give us full time work after the cut; yes, I know it, but look ye, boy, are they business men to talk that way? The cut would do them no good, because of the buyers. They are here now and they note every move in the factory game.

"Think ye they will not insist on paying lower prices for their goods when the masters are paying lower prices. I warrant they will."

Faces Bore Sad Expression.

The old man stood at the City Square, where forty cars stop to take on mill hands and from which point they radiate to the various factories. A half dozen cars, crowded with men and women, stood on the tracks. Fifty persons listened to his statement. He was addressing his fellow workers more than the reporter. He finally turned to them, making an odd, jerky gesture with a maimed hand, and asked: "Am I right, boys and girls; am I right?" "Yes," came in a chorus.

"Will it prove a great hardship?" the reporter ventured, addressing three women. One was old and wore a thin, rusty black dress. The others were younger in years, but on their faces was the stamp of premature age. The old woman looked at her companions with a look of wonder in her face. They returned her gaze in dumb despair. "It will mean starvation, that's what it will mean," said the old woman.

This opened the mouth of one of the younger women. She was really but a slender, pinch-faced girl, yet in her teens. "And they give us ten looms, think of it, ten looms and eight are all that any person can handle and not kill herself."

"How much do you earn?" asked the reporter.

"I made $3.25 last week, but I knew a girl who made $5. She is one of the most expert weavers. Some of the men make as high as $7, I have heard, but I don't know any of them."

Turn Us Into Streets.

The reporter boarded one of the crowded cars, packed with sullen-faced men. "What do you think of the proposed cut?" he asked. One man took his pipe out of his mouth, as though he had said it many times before, he replied: "They mean to turn us into the street, that's what they do." He put his pipe back into his mouth and lapsed into a moody silence, nor would he vouchsafe a syllable in reply to other questions propounded.

Women Appeal for Bread.

Michael Mayle keeps a small grocery on Weaver street, in the heart of the poorest section. He knows the inside of the homes of poverty and the hearts of pain of that section. "They have no money," he said. "They come to me for bread. They say they are starving. But what can I do? I cannot give them bread. I am a poor man. It is hard.

"I would not mind the men so much. It is the women and children who touch me, but what can I do. Am I wrong, when I refuse them bread? How can I do otherwise? I am poor, too, almost as poor as they are."

The contemplated cut will reduce the price of weaving regular print cloth from 19.8 cents to 17.32 cents per cut, or 12½ per cent. The agreement, it is said, has been signed by the representatives of all the mills but one or two.

2,300,000 Spindles.

The only difference of opinion among the manufacturers in the wage matter was whether the reduction should be one of 15 or 10 per cent, and the 12½ per cent is believed to represent a compromise. It is sought to have 2,300,000 spindles represented in the agreement, the largest total ever attempted here, and of that total more than 2,000,000 spindles are now secure.

ANGORA TABBIES SEEN BY D. A. R. DELEGATES

In the accompanying picture of a D. A. R. party who participated in the annual pilgrimage Mrs. N. Rogers is shown standing on the platform of the train, in the rear. On the top step, in front of her and to her right is Mrs. L. B. Hatch. Standing on the ground reading from right to left are Mrs. John W. Deering, Mrs. Alice Rogers Hall, Mrs. Myra Garrison Hall and Miss Marion Copeland.

Though not in the historic line, a group of nine angora cats, owned by Mrs. Charles H. Masury of Danvers, was one of the most interesting features of the annual pilgrimage of Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution to Salem and Danvers. The ladies of the society who went on the pilgramage are telling their feminine friends to-day of "Mrs. Charles H. Masury's handsome angoras, the most magnificent cats you ever saw, my dear."

Outside of these superb cats, however, the trip was of active interest for the D. A. R. members. They left here at 9:30 for Salem, conducted by Mrs. I. N. Marshall of South Framingham, State Secretary of the Massachusetts society. After a drive about Salem they went to Danvers, where they were guests of Israel Putnam Chapter at lunch in Unity Chapel. Mrs. Masury, State Regent, entertained them at her home during the afternoon.

FOUND DEAD IN A CHAIR, CASE IS A MYSTERY

Police to Investigate Sudden Death of Louis Richardson, Commercial Traveler.

Much mystery surrounds the cause of the death today of Louis Richardson, a travelling salesman in the employ of C. P. Seaverns & Co., paint and drug dealers, who was found dead in the office of the firm at No. 34 Central Wharf.

Richardson's friends declare that death was due to heart failure, but the police will investigate the matter, as a cup, containing the dregs of some bitter liquid, was found on the desk beside the body.

Body Seated in Chair.

The body was discovered by Leslie Nissin, assistant shipper for the firm, when he entered the office to-day. It was seated in a chair, the feet crossed and the head sunk on the breast. On the desk, at the dead man's elbow, was the cup, the police say, and on the floor was the stub of a cigar which had dropped from his fingers.

Richardson's home was in Leominster, but he had lodged in the house of Mrs. Anna Dennee, No. 201 St. Botolph street, for the past two years.

He had been employed by Seaverns & Co. about five years, and was considered one of the firm's best and steadiest men.

C. H. Rockwood, shipper for Seaverns & Co., said that he knew that Richardson had suffered from heart failure, and that he had been refused by several life insurance companies on that account. He had no doubt that heart failure was the cause of death.

At No. 201 Botolph street it was said that Richardson was a very steady young man. He occupied his room there last Monday night, but was not in last night. His landlady thought nothing of that, because his work kept him away from home sometimes a week at a time.

Was Reserved in Habit.

Of his private affairs no one at his lodging house knew anything. He was always pleasant, they said, but rather reserved, not caring to talk about himself or his business.

The body was taken to Briggs's undertaking rooms and an autopsy will be held by the Medical Examiner.

Mother in Leominster.

WORCESTER, July 13.—Louis Richardson, who was found dead in Boston to-day, was well known in Leominster, where his family has lived for years. His father, Walter J. Richardson, years ago was a prominent groceryman in the town, and since his father's death Louis has been engaged as a travelling salesman.

His mother, Mrs. Cora Richardson, still lives at the family homestead, No. 44 West street. The first news of the young man's death was brought to Leominster by the AMERICAN reporter, who notified Selectman Whitney. He broke the news to Mrs. Richardson.

Louis Richardson has made his home in Boston about a year, but visited his old haunts in Leominster frequently. He was about twenty-eight years of age and very popular.

COUNTRY CIRCUS IS SHORT OF MUSICIANS

The managers of the Country Circus, which is performing at Beverley with a troupe made up of North Shore society people, are making earnest efforts to secure musicians to take the place of those who went on strike. Only three musicians appeared for one performance, but the directors of the show are confident of securing the services of a sufficient number to make up a full-fledged circus band.

ONE BRAKEMAN KILLED, ANOTHER BADLY HURT

HARTFORD, Conn., July 13.—William Cotter, of No. 91 Ward street, New Haven, and William Keubler, also of New Haven, both brakemen in the freight service of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, were knocked from a northbound freight train, due in Hartford at 8:40 o'clock, near the Laurel street bridge to-day. Keubler was instantly killed. Cotter was taken to St. Francis Hospital with a fractured skull. His condition is critical.

GAY SEASON AT NEWPORT

By the Chaperon.

THE North Shore people seem to have an almost endless number of diversions to take up their time. With the circus at Beverley, polo at Hamilton, auto boat races at Marblehead and the usual round of luncheons and dinners, society has plenty of choice in the matter of amusing itself. Then there is Miss Alice Roosevelt. Yesterday she drove over from her aunt's place, at Manchester-by-the-Sea, to the Myopia Hunt Club and enjoyed the polo match. Later in the day she dined with the Longworths, after which "Nick" Longworth drove her home.

Emperor William of Germany was yesterday a guest of Mrs. Robert Goelet at Bergen. She and her party were in the harbor in their yacht and the Emperor came aboard. A luncheon was served and the Kaiser spent a very enjoyable afternoon. The Americans amuse him, and he has been heard to say that he finds them very interesting. I am sure he found Mrs. Goelet and her party so, as his hostess is one of the most fascinating society women on this side of the water.

LABOR

SIXTY employees of the Phoenix Bridge Co., of Phoenixville, Pa., the concern constructing the new West Boston bridge are on strike to-day on account of a dispute over the hours of work overtime and the weekly payment. The men allege that this law is being violated by the company in that they have been paid only once every fortnight. It is also claimed that about twenty apprentices were engaged on the job whereas the union agreement of the bridge and structural iron workers permits but one apprentice to every seven men.

The Phoenix Bridge Company has two big jobs on its hands in other parts of the country, one at Quebec, Can., and the other in the South. It was stated last night that, if a settlement is not effected with the company on the Boston job, strikes will be ordered on the other two jobs.

MINERS WIN POINT.

The coal miners of Pennsylvania cheered the announcement made at the annual convention in Wilkesbarre that 31 collieries, had agreed to enforce the conciliation board's decision on the check docking and check weighing boss grievances at all the collieries where a majority of men make assignments. This leaves only the Delaware and Hudson and the Temple Coal and Iron companies who have not yet made the agreement. If either of these fail to follow the lead of the other companies its employes will withdraw from the conciliation board and settle the difficulty as best they can.

NEWSBOYS' NEW OFFICERS.

The new officers installed by the Newsboys' Protective Union, last evening, were: President, Samuel Rubinovitch; vice-president, Harry Channen; recording secretary, Maurice H. Zarensky; financial secretary, Maurice B. Ushner; treasurer, Thomas J. Mulkern; sergeant-at-arms, Michael Goldblatt.

Resolutions were adopted thanking the Board of Police for its kind reception and treatment of the committee from the union which went to consult the board relative to the arrest of four newsboys who had not displayed their badges.

Thomas J. Mulkern was elected delegate to the State Branch of the American Federation of Labor convention in Lynn, October 10.

PAINTERS HOLD ELECTION.

Painters' Union, Local No. 11, has elected the following officers:

President, John J. Collins; vice-president, David Frazar; recording secretary, Charles D. McVey; financial secretary, Harry Noble; treasurer, John J. Gerrier; conductor, T. J. Green; delegates to the Boston Building Trades Council, Patrick Deraney, Fred J. Kneeland, William Watts, James Barry, Thomas D. Wyre, John T. Cashman and William F. McCarthy; delegates to the Boston Central Labor Union, John J. Collins, William Lonegan, Daniel Lynch, John T. O'Neil, David Frazar, Freda J. Kneeland, Patrick J. Deraney, John T. Cashman, William F. McCarthy; delegates to the Painters' District Council of Eastern Massachusetts, John J. Collins, John T. O'Neil, John T. Cashman, William F. McCarthy, David Frazar, D. H. C. McIntyre, Harry Smith and Willard D. Esterbrook.

The election of a business agent will take place at the first meeting in August.

BINDS WOMAN, ROBS HOUSE

Steals Money and Jewelry While She Lies Unconscious From His Attack.

There is consternation among women in Roxbury, and husbands and fathers are urging the police of Division 10 to find a tall junkman, with shaggy eyebrows and stubby mustache, who has the figure 7 in his license number and bears a resemblance to the man alleged to have assaulted and robbed Mrs. William Mathieson in her home, 78 Sterling street, last night.

Mrs. Mathieson was found bound and gagged under the kitchen table, by her sister, Mrs. Elsie Hermes, who occupies a room at No. 667 Shawmut avenue, according to the story told by Mrs. Hermes to an AMERICAN reporter to-day.

"I left my sister's house about twenty minutes to 7," said Mrs. Hermes. "When I came back at 8 o'clock I found the door still open. I heard somebody moaning, and then saw her dress sticking out under the table. She was lying face downwards. I lifted her up and took the gag from her mouth and untied her arms. They were tied with a piece of clothes line that had been strung across the kitchen.

"She said that shortly after I left she heard somebody come into the kitchen. She was lying in the next room. She thought I had returned. Her eyes were half closed, and when she opened them she saw a man leaning over her. She screamed, and he stuffed a handkerchief into her mouth. She fainted then, but from the glimpse she had of the man she says he resembled the junk man who had been in a week ago."

A gold watch and chain and $4.51 in change, are missing from Mrs. Mathieson's rooms.

CLOCK PUZZLE KEEPS ALL AMERICAN READERS GUESSING

Young and Old Trying to Figure Out When the Clock Struck One, and Answers Cover A Wide Range of Calculation and Conjecture.

WHEN did the clock strike one on December 25, 1903? And had the sun risen above the horizon? These are the questions which are dividing with baseball and politics the interest of all Greater Boston and New England. Many are the answers sent in, but only one is correct. See if you can figure it out exactly.

WHO CAN SOLVE THIS PROBLEM?

Copyright, 1904, by American-Journal-Examiner.

On the morning of December 25, 1903, an old clock, which was a fine timekeeper, struck 11 while the hands were pointing to exactly 7 o'clock. Just as the clock struck 3 it stopped, having run down. It was wound up and started again at precisely 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The next time it struck 1 what hour was it, and was it time for the sun to be up?

Please write out your solution to-day and address it to Clock Problem Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, 80-82 Summer street.

GETS DOWN TO SECONDS.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

In figuring on the problem, I think the correct time was 13 seconds 7 minutes to 11 o'clock, December 25, 1903, and the sun was up.

SUNRISE AT 7:23 A. M.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Clock striking 11 at 7 a. m., "wound up and started" at 7:30 p. m., would strike 1 at 5:30 a. m. Sunrise on December 26, 1903, was 7:23 a. m., and therefore it was not time for the sun to be up.

STRUCK 1 AT 1.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The clock that says 11 when it is 7 must say 3 when it is 11, and it will strike 1 when it is 9. But the clock was started at 7:30 precisely, and it was 1 o'clock precisely when the clock struck 1. So it was not time for the sun to be up.

FIGURED OUT CAREFULLY.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

As the person who wound the clock must have done so for the purpose of telling the time by it, he set the hands at 7:30. All the evidence we have on this point is furnished by the clock itself. As the striker is wrong now, it must have been wrong the last time the clock was started. Thus the owner was not particular about the striker, and when he set the clock probably did it as quickly as possible and turned the hands till they marked the proper time without waiting for each hour to strike.

In setting a striking clock in this way every time the minutes hand passed 12 the striking wheel advanced one notch. As the clock stopped at 11, it must have been started at 11 (whether it was an eight-day or a twenty-four hour clock is immaterial). It must have stopped between 5 and 6 o'clock after the clock had struck 12. All the evidence goes to show that the person setting the clock did not set the striker. The hands pointed to 11 and the clock had struck 3. The minute hand was turned and when the hour hand pointed to 12 the striker struck the first stroke of 4. When it pointed to 3 the striker struck the fourth stroke of 4, and at 7 the fourth stroke of 5. The clock was then set at 7:30, and at 8 p. m., Dec. 25, 1903, the clock struck 1 for the fifth stroke of 5, and the sun was several hours below the horizon. W. J. CARROLL.

SPLITS SECONDS.

ANOTHER SAYS 5 O'CLOCK.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The answer is 5 o'clock a. m., December 26, because when it struck 11 at 7 a. m., December 25, it struck 3 at 11 a. m., and stopped till 7:30 p. m. At 7:30 it started to run, and gave 4 strikes at 8 p. m., and it took nine hours till it came again that the clock shall strike 1, which makes 5 o'clock a. m., next morning, and still it was not time for the sun to rise, because in December the sun arises after 7 o'clock a. m.

SUN WAS NOT UP, HE SAYS.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The clock being set at 7:30, having stopped at 3 p. m., made the time 4½ hours slow. The next time it struck 1 would be 5 a. m., and being 4½ hours slow would bring the exact time at 5:30 a. m., when it struck 1. The sun does not rise here in Boston at 5:30 a. m. in December or January.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST
80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, JULY 13, 1904

The "Good Fellow" and His Unlucky Family.

An Editorial on This "Good Fellow," Written at the Request of a Reader.

Many men value, foolishly, the title of "good fellow."

The American good fellow has already been discussed in this column. Our reader, Mr. Eugene Driscoll, demands that we shall take up the good fellow's case and expose his real character.

Says Mr. Driscoll:

"Whenever you find a man who is slapped on the back wherever he goes and called a good fellow, go to his home and find out whether his children have got good shoes on their feet, and whether his wife is wondering how she is to pay the bills.

"When there is a raffle of some kind, and tickets have got to be sold for the benefit of some other good fellow who has spent what didn't belong to him, it is the good fellow of the moment who comes along and buys the tickets with the money that he owes for honest debts.

"Many a man, trying to be a good fellow, has disgraced himself, made his family miserable, and missed a chance to be a self-respecting man. The BOSTON AMERICAN ought to show up the good fellow at least once a month."

Once a month would be too often, and it is not a pleasant task, although it is a duty, to criticise the men, weak and good-natured, who fail through a foolish, feeble desire to be liked.

If you see a woman moving from her comfortable, small home into a cheap boarding house or flat, and if you hear her say sadly, "Poor John, he could never say no," you may be sure that "poor John," her husband, is a decided good fellow.

If you find a man with a large crowd of admiring acquaintances—especially in barrooms and at the race track—a man who ultimately robs his own brother or some one else who has trusted him—you may be sure that that was a VERY good fellow.

The good-fellow sermon is preached in condensed form in the old proverb: "Charity begins at home."

But the charity and the kindness that begin at home do not satisfy the good fellow's aspirations. There is nothing very exciting, when you take back your week's income, about seeing on the following Monday receipts for rent, groceries, children's shoes, for new fire brick in the range, for "the girl's" wages.

The good fellow does not care for such monotonous, prosaic forms of duty. His idea of the right thing is to urge some man to drink what he does not need, to insist that some sponge shall eat, or travel, or go to the theatre at his expense.

Nothing is gained by mere criticism or abuse. The good fellow is an American institution—there are millions of him. He contributes to the list of failures in the newspapers, to the list of prisoners charged with forgery.

There are many of his tribe that will read this column, and we shall say a few words to them.

What do YOU get out of your title, "good fellow"? When you wake up in the morning, late for your work, do you find the empty flattery of the barroom of the night before so very satisfactory? Does it remain with you as a permanently valuable asset?

Do you think that those men with whom you play the good fellow really have a high opinion of you, or that their high opinion would be really worth having?

Don't you think it would be better to have your own self-respect? Don't you think it would be better to be a good MAN in the eyes of the world—a man of self-control, doing your duty, denying yourself foolish, empty words of flattery, instead of being the good FELLOW bound for failure and self-contempt?

"The Villainous Labor Unions."

They Certainly Interfere Shamefully with Their Employers' "Business."

A thousand human beings were burned or drowned in the Slocum disaster.

NOTHING HAS BEEN DONE, AND NOTHING IS GOING TO BE DONE ABOUT IT—but that is another story, and a very familiar one.

You know, of course, why a thousand lives were destroyed. A corrupt and dishonest company—whose president, by the way, had been called a swindler from the bench—had bribed corrupt and dishonest inspectors, who should have prevented the disaster by enforcing safety laws.

Are you aware of the fact that some ordinary, low-down labor unions—the unions of pilots and of engineers—have been struggling for a long time to obtain better laws to protect life on the water, and especially to enforce the laws that exist?

The effort of the unions has been made at Washington, and in the State Legislature—but it has been defeated.

The steamship companies and owners denounced the action of the union men as meddlesome and IMPERTINENT. They said that they ought to mind their own business, and not interfere with the business of the steamship companies, from whom they get their bread and butter.

The steamship companies were successful, the labor unions were defeated, the Slocum was not properly inspected—no boats are properly inspected, if the owners are willing to pay bribes—and the thousand human beings were killed.

This kind of impertinent meddling by labor unions is done in many directions, and it is vigorously opposed in as many directions by "respectable" money associations.

The unions fight against child labor.

They fight against the use of dangerous materials in building.

They fight against overcrowding and sweat shops.

They fight against disease-breeding tenements that threaten everybody.

In every instance they are opposed by "respectable" property that does not want to be interfered with.

It is to be hoped that sooner or later—and sooner, rather than later—ALL citizens will be united in a great union of labor and patriotism, and that they will succeed at last in establishing the fact that life, health, education and happiness for all are more important than a few miserable dollars for a few blind and selfish egotists.

The Stenographer

She Explains Why Men Co-Eds and Girl Co-Eds Don't Join in Marriage

"THE wise ones who knock co-educational colleges as promotion agencies for matrimony will find that their theories have been given the double cross by the reports of the various schools where the he students and she students pursue the path of learning hand in hand, so to speak," remarked the Stenographer.

"How is that?" inquired the Bookkeeper.

"Simply that statistics show that the sweet young things don't marry each other," replied the Stenographer; "at Tufts College, which is the co-ed head-liner, they report only two marriages in five years between men and women who had been students there."

"That sure does surprise me," said the Bookkeeper, "for I should have framed it up that if you had put a bunch of callow kids together conjugating 'amo, amas,' the first thing that would happen would be that they would think themselves in love, and get tied up in double harness for life before they had time to find out that calf love will get well of itself if you will give it a chance."

"Propinquity is a great match-maker," observed the Stenographer, "but to be effective it has to wear a rosy veil, and the propinquity of the school room doesn't do this. It's bald and bare, like the propinquity of home, that makes you wonder what on earth anybody could have seen in your sister or brother to make them willing to marry 'em."

"By Jinks, it always seemed to me that the fellow who agreed to stand for my sister's board bill was so easy it was a shame to take him in," commented the Bookkeeper.

"And I have always marvelled that the woman who married my brother could see a hero of romance, and a great, strong, noble, superior being in a fellow who ate onions and raised Cain every time dinner was five minutes late," said the Stenographer.

"Now that's about the kind of line that the students in the co-educational concerns get on each other, and it gives them heart fag. There are no illusions. They know each other too well. Imagination has no chance to work, and there is nothing doing in the matrimonial business.

"Another thing that deals Cupid a solar plexus blow is that co-education gives men and women a plummet and line with which to measure each other's ignorance. This doesn't matter much so far as the girls are concerned, for the less a woman knows and the bigger fool she is, the more men admire her; but it's fatal for the men. No girl wants to marry the man she can spell down in class or figure 'round in arithmetic. And the man is just as much opposed to espousing her. That's the reason these female star performers in co-educational colleges don't marry their fellow-students. They have to hunt around until they find a man who doesn't know how much they know."

"Catch me marrying one of these wise ladies!" exclaimed the Bookkeeper, "who'd be always correcting my grammar and pronunciation and setting me right about my history. I've seen 'em, and every time there was a pause in the conversation you could hear their husbands rattle their collars."

"That's right," said the Stenographer, "the very foundation of domestic bliss consists in a woman believing that her husband is a little tin god, who knows it all, and no man is ever an awesome being to a co-ed. He's just a common ordinary kind of skate, that she has seen fall down too often."

"I don't believe in co-education, any way," pursued the Bookkeeper.

"Neither do I," replied the Stenographer; "if God had intended man and woman to know much about each other He would have made them twins instead of singles on different days."

"Women are not fitted to take up the same course of study that men are," continued the Bookkeeper.

"Well," said the Stenographer, "in most of the co-educational institutions they seem to have given the men students a run for their money."

A Modern Bandit

By R. G. Butler

Boris Sarafoff, the Macedonian bandit, has ordered a light, but strong automobile for next season.—Foreign Cablegram.

I'M a revolutionary chief of very modern type—
Keep my office open always, day or night.
I rather pride myself on being strictly up to date,
And I guarantee my charges will be right.

In blackmail and in riots I've a very varied line—
I'll kidnap at any place on any road.
There's some one in my office who will always answer calls,
And you'll find my name in any cable code.

I've decided to send back all my horses and my bikes
To the men I took them from when they were new;
For I'm placing many orders with the automobile men,
And have gathered in of chauffeurs quite a few.

Thus my methods and my system are complete and up to date—
All cash orders and cash ransoms, so much off;
To reach me, ring up Central, ask for Macedonia, One.
Or send a wire to Boris Sarafoff.

Little Editorials from the People

THE BOSTON AMERICAN welcomes its growing army of correspondents, who write their views on the many questions in which they are interested, but for the sake of all, and in order to give the hundreds who write to it a chance, it is requested that all make their "little editorials" very brief. Letters of from 100 to 200 words will speedily appear. Longer ones must wait, and are likely never to see the light.

DANGEROUS CORNER THAT NEEDS WATCHING.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

If there is a dangerous corner in this city it is that at the junction of Massachusetts and Columbus avenues. Daily there are narrow escapes from instant death, and it seems that something should be done to safeguard life there.

At the busy times of the day, especially around 6 p. m., it is extremely dangerous to cross the street. The cars turning down Columbus avenue toward the city and those heading the other direction toward the Roxbury crossing are in themselves menacing enough. But to make matters worse there are dozens of automobiles which are constantly rushing up and down the street.

Yesterday an old lady was knocked down at that corner and had to be assisted to a nearby house where she might recover from the shock. The driver of the automobile did not even stop, but hurried up the hill on Massachusetts avenue. D. S. T.

PATRIOTISM FROM THE CONSTITUTION.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I have read with interest the comment of Joseph Parkinson, of New Bedford, who expresses his admiration of the Declaration of Independence, which, he says, he read for the first time in the SUNDAY AMERICAN. He explains that he is an Englishman by birth, but for ten years a citizen of the United States. He is on the right track. Now let him take the time to read the Constitution, if he has not done so, and he will have accomplished what few native born Americans do in these days.

The Declaration of Independence is inspiring, but a voter can get more food for thought from the Constitution. It takes time to read it and to digest it, but I think that Mr. Parkinson, and others who are patriotic, will find that by contrasting the theory of the Constitution with the existing conditions they will acquire a sort of working patriotism that will be felt at the polls, not the kind that is confined in too many cases to the lemonade booth on the Fourth and the Seventeenth.

Dorchester. J. J. F.

SUGGESTS A LAWSON CARTOON.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I have several ideas for cartoons. Here is one of them:

Show Thomas W. Lawson as a schoolmaster, whipping J. P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller and H. H. Rogers, making them give up a lot of apples they had taken, and distributing them to the school.

Boston. H. W. POWERS.

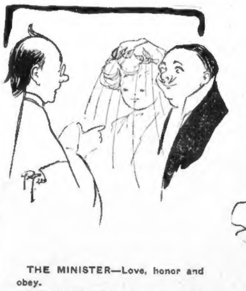
WANTS RHODE ISLAND LABOR NEWS PRINTED IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I should think that a Sunday, or perhaps a daily, column of Rhode Island labor union news would prove to be a popular feature of the BOSTON AMERICAN in this State. The labor movement has grown wonderfully in this State in the last few years, and the labor men have no paper here that gives full and fair attention to their doings.

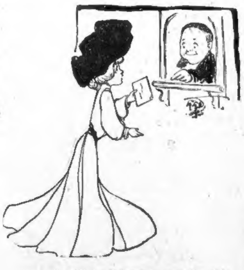
Providence. BRADFORD STEPHENS.

THE ETERNAL FEMININE



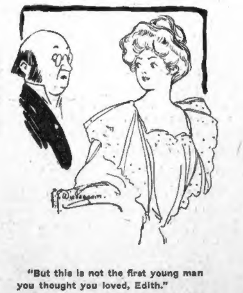
THE MINISTER—Love, honor and obey.

THE BRIDEGROOM—Please repeat that word obey a little louder. My fiance is slightly deaf.



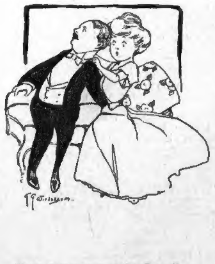
"It will be delivered promptly with a special stamp on it, madam."

"Very well, and please tell the carrier in Kalamazoo to beware of our dog, as he snaps at all strangers."



"But this is not the first young man you thought you loved, Edith."

"No, daddie; but it's the first one with a million."



"Here comes your father."

"No; it's my big brother Joe. Father always comes downstairs at this time of the morning in his stocking feet."
